THE BROCKMAN FAMILY

Origin of the Name—Early History of the Brockman Family
—Brockmans of Essex and Kent Counties, England
—The American Branch.

THE NAME

BROCH AND BROCHE MEAN FROM A RESIDENCE BY A STREAM. THE MEDIEVAL FORMS ARE ATTE-BROC AND ATTENBROKE, PLURALIZED BY BROOKS, BROOKES, BROOKMAN, BROKEMAN AND BROCKMAN. ALL ARE VARIATIONS OF THE SAME NAME. THE GERMAN FAMILY HAVE ALWAYS SPELLED THE NAME B-R-O-C-K-M-A-N. ONE AUTHORITY GIVES THE ORIGIN OF BROCK AS MEANING VASSAL.

Broch is also the Anglo-Saxon for burg or burgh. In Scotch it means and is applied to the ancient round towers or strongholds existing in the north of Scotland. In Gaelic-speaking districts they are called "Duns," and "Caiseals" (castles). There are four hundred Brochs in different parts of Scotland, most of which are in absolute ruins. They are known to antiquarians as "Pictish Towers." The best known examples of these are Mousa and Clickemin, in Shetland; Dun Carloway, in Lewis; and Dun Dornadilla, in Sutherland. The essential features in construction are alike in all cases, though there is difference in details.

The exterior diameter differs in width and varies between forty and seventy feet. In the outer wall there is a small doorway about six feet high and about thirty-six inches wide. This is the only opening whatever in the outer wall, and is defended by a small chamber within the wall on both sides of the entrance. Furthermore, there are, some distance within the opening, sliding holes for a sliding bar to guard the entrance. The wall is about fifteen feet thick, enclosing a circular courtyard, open to the sky, in which is frequently found a well. Narrow circling galleries arranged in tiers one above the other are built in the interior of the wall, connected by a staircase which winds from the base to the summit. These galleries are lighted and ventilated from the inner area or courtyard, sometimes called the "Well," by means of windows placed in perpendicular rows, and separated from each other by single slabs of stone. No Broch now existing is complete in its upper part, so that it is impossible to tell their original height and number of galleries built in the inner wall. Mousa has a height of forty feet with six galleries, and Dun Carloway thirty-four feet with five galleries. Small bee-hive shaped chambers are built around the inside of the court on the ground floor, but in some cases the wall at the base is solid, with only one aperture in which the staircase leads to the gallery. The outer chambers have for their roof the floor of the chambers above. Extensive excavations have been undertaken by the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland, and many relics of the former inhabitants have been found. From the tools and the relics found it is thought that the Broch dwellers were agriculturists and that the Brochs were used for the refuge of themselves and their cattle from the numerous plundering bands that ravaged many parts of Great Britain. Most authorities date the building of the Brochs to a Post-Roman period, that is, not earlier than the fifth century. Harold, Earl of Orkney, besieged Mousa about A. D. 1155, but failed to capture it. The Brochs probably suffered at the hands of the Northmen from the ninth to the twelfth century.

EARLY ENGLISH RECORDS

Early records show that the Brockman family lived in the counties of Hertfordshire, Somerset, Essex, and later in Kent County, England. The English spelling has been Brokman, Brokeman, Brookman, Brookeman, Brockeman, and Brockman. This is referred to in Visitation of Kent, Vol. 42, page 72, dated 1619. The church registers of Maidstone and Leeds show the entries of the name Brockman in the year 1200 A. D.

HERTFORDSHIRE COUNTY, ENGLAND

MANOR OF BROCKMAN.—This Manor was originally called by the name of Mymme-Hall, and was derived from "In Mas North Meimms," of which it was holden by fealty and a certain rent. It derived its present name—Brockman—from John Brockman, from the thirty-fourth year of the reign of King Henry, the sixth. It is found that John Twyner, Esq., granted to John Fortescue and others, the Manor of Mymme-Hall, late the possession of John Brockman, which John Brookeman appears to have purchased lands in the parish of John Nashe, in the ninth year of the reign of King Henry the Fourth.

ESSEX COUNTY, ENGLAND

John Brockman, died 1500, married Florence, dau. of John St. Legar.

The Brockman family of Essex County, England, lived on the Fawkenborne Estate, and the latest records show that John Brookman was Lord of Fawkenborne. The Essex family, for the most part, spelled their name BROOKMAN. No further record has been found of this family. It is known that many at that time emigrated to the Barbadoes. In proof of this the author quotes, as follows: "List of Emigrants to America, by Hotten, page 467:

"Parish Registers, The Barbadoes: Burialls in ye Parish of St. George's, from ye 25th of March, 1678, untill ye 29th of September, 1679: Amy, ye wife of Thomas Brockman, buried 8 ber 09 (Oct. 9, 1678)."

The first of these is the fact that the American Medical Association is not a body of men, but a body of ideas. It is a body of ideas which has been built up over a long period of years, and which is now being built up again. It is a body of ideas which is now being built up again, and which is now being built up again.

KENT COUNTY, ENGLAND

SIR HENRY BROCKMAN, of Newington, Kent County, England, married the daughter and heir of Jo Chilton.

*Rev. Ralph Drake took name and arms of Brockman, by act of Parliament and by act of George III, King of England, and in compliance with the Will of James Brockman. This line is now in possession of the Brockman Manor, England.

†We have no proof of this connection, however, we believe it to be correct.

DRAKE-BROCKMAN FAMILY OF KENT COUNTY, ENGLAND

Sir William Brockman, son of Sir Henry Brockman and Helen Sawking, married Ann Bunce, daughter of Simon Bunce, of Newington.

SIR HENRY BROCKMAN OF BEACHBOROUGH, COUN-TY OF KENT, NEWINGTON, ENGLAND

Sir Henry Brockman, of Newington, County of Kent, was the second son of John Brockman and his wife Florence St. Legar Brockman, of the County of Essex. He purchased lands in this county in the year 1455. His wife was the daughter and co-heir of Jo Chilton, of Kent County.

Beachborough is a seat in the northwestern part of the Parish of Newington. In the latter part of Queen Elizabeth's reign, it was bought by Sir Henry Brockman, who died possessor in 1573. The Manor House is still standing (1916) and remains in the possession of the Brockman family.

Children of Sir Henry Brockman:

1. Sir William, m. Margaret Clark (of whom later).
2. John Brockman.
3. Julia Brockman, married Thomas Broadnax.

Sir William Brockman, son and heir of Beachborough, married Margaret, daughter of Humphrey Clarke, of Kingsworth. He died in 1605, and his wife in 1610. Mrs. Brockman was 79 years of age when her death occurred. They had two children, as follows:

1. Margaret, married Sir Edward Duke, Knight of Aylesforth.
2. Sir Henry Brockman, married Helen, daughter of Nicholas Sawking.

Sir Henry Brockman and wife Helen had three children. She died and Sir Henry married again. The name of his second wife is not known to the author. In Berry's Kent Genealogies, the name is not given. The children by both marriages are as follows:

1. Margaret Brockman, m. Valentine Norton, of Fordwich.
2. Helen, no record found.
3. William Brockman, third child and oldest son by first marriage; of whom later.
4. Nicholas Brockman.
6. Zouche Brockman, m. ———, and had three children, William, died 1696; Zouche; and *Henry. William had three children, James, died 1712; Henry, of Cheriton, married and had several children, one, Caroline, married Rev. Ralph Drake (See Drake-Brockman sketch), died 1752; and William, the cavalier, died 1707, no issue.
7. Elizabeth.
8. Mary.
9. Agnes

---

*Sir Henry Brockman was born Nov. 8, 1623, and baptized Nov. 16, 1623. The records of Sir Henry's emigration from England have not been proven conclusively, except that his father was engaged in the cause of Prince Charles, and that immediately after the death of Charles I every tenth man was killed who engaged with him, and the rest were sent to the Barbadoes. History (Myer's Central History) shows us conclusively that this occurred, and English Court records show us that Sir Henry and his family were against Cromwell; therefore we feel certain that these men were sent to the Barbadoes. There we have record heretofore given, that several of the Brockman's lived, then took passage on ship under the command of Capt. John Jourdain, and landed in the colony of Maryland. Further records of Sir Henry Brockman will be found in this book under Head "The American Branch."

SIR WILLIAM BROCKMAN, KNIGHT

Sir William Brockmaan, third child, and oldest son of Sir Henry Brockman and Helen Sawking Brockman, married Ann, only daughter of Simon Bunce, of Linstead, by Dorothy, daughter of William Grimsdiche, of Grimsdiche County, Leicester. They were married on May 28, 1616. Sir William was buried there Dec., 1654, and his wife on Nov. 29, 1660. (General History of Kent County page 167.) Sir William Brockman was knighted by the King, and appointed High Sheriff of Kent County, which position he held for eighteen years. Being of known loyalty to Charles I, he was superseded by the authority of Parliament, by Joel Honeywood.

Following are his children:

1. Sir Henry Brockman, one of the devoted adherents of Charles I, distinguished himself by a couragous defense of the towns of Maidstone and Leeds, against a considerable number of Parliament forces, headed by Fairfax. He died single in the lifetime of his father, in 1622 (Burke's Landed Gentry).
2. Martha Brockman, buried at Newington.
3. James Brockman, m. Lucy Young; of whom later.
4. Katherine Brockman, buried at Newington, April 3, 1646.
5. Helen Brockman, m. Sir Roger Gipps, in 1607.
6. Margery Brockman, m. Sir William Hugeson, at Cheriton, Aug. 27, 1644.
7. Anne Brockman, married Sir John Boys in 1650. Sir John was knighted, and died in 1651.

Sir James Brockman, of Beachborough, the only surviving son of Sir William Brockman and wife Ann Bunce, married Lucy Young, and had three children:

1. Anne Brockman, born Jan. 25, 1652; married Sir Miles Cook, a master in chancery.
2. Elizabeth, was buried at Newington, in 1607.
3. William Brockman, only son and heir, married, in 1741, Anne, eldest daughter of Richard Glydd, of Pendhill, in Surrey County. They had three children:
  1. Sir William, married, but died in lifetime of his father.
  2. Sir James Brockman, only surviving son, died in 1767, age 71 years. He devised his estates to the great nephew of his mother, Rev. Ralph Drake, of Beachborough, who assumed the surname and arms of Brockman by act of Parliament in 1768.
  3. John Brockman, died unmarried in 1739.

RICHARD GLYDD

Richard Glydd, of Pendhill, County of Surry, had two children, as follows:

1. Anne Glydd, married Sir William Brockman. Their son, Sir James, was the last of his line to hold title, which became extinct in 1767, and which would rightfully belong to the American Branch.
2. Martha Glydd, married Ralph Drake, and had two sons and four daughters; their sons were—
  1. Ralph Drake, m. Martha Brockman, dau. of Sir James Brockman.
  2. John Drake, married Anne Hays, and had five children, as follows:
    1. Rev. Ralph Drake-Brockman, m. Caroline Brockman.
    2. Anne Drake, m. 1st, William Smith, of Heyton-gent; 2nd, George Lynch, of Ripple Creek, Clerk. She died in 1787. No issue.
    3. Martha Drake.
    4. Sarah Drake.
    5. Margaret Drake.

They had six children:

1. James Drake Brockman, m. Catherine Elizabeth Drake; of whom later.
2. Rev. Julius Drake Brockman, m. Harriet Locke; of whom later.
3. Anne Drake Brockman, m. Thomas Locke.
4. Elizabeth, m. John Foster, gent.
5. Mary, m. William Honeywood.

daughter of Rev. Taton Drake, at Lambeth Chapel. They had thirteen children, as follows:

1. James Drake Brockman.
2. Rev. William Drake Brockman.
3. Henry Lynch Brockman, buried at Elvas, in Portugal, 1809.
4. Catherine.

*Letters of Mr. Fletcher Simms Brockman Showing His Search in England for Records of the Brockman Family.

MRS. J. W. SIMPSON,

Spartanburg, S. C.

England, Hythe, Kent County.

May 30, 1905.

Dear Mrs. Simpson. Since reaching England I have made the acquaintance of the Kent County Brockmans and visited the old family seat which has been in the hands of the family since 1550. Unfortunately, Mr. Francis Drake Brockman, the lord of the manor, was not at home when I called and is now in another part of England. I met, however, in Folkstone, which is nearby, Mr. Albert D. Brockman, a cousin of Mr. F. D. Brockman. Mr. Albert Brockman is much interested in the Brockman genealogy. He confirmed the information concerning the family which I had gathered at the British Museum and some further facts. I enclose herewith a brief resume of this information:

(1) The name Brockman is not common.

(2) Most Virginia settlers were from the Cavaliers. The Kent Brockmans were pronounced cavaliers.

(3) The given names William, Thomas, Robert, Henry, John, Mary, Caroline and Elizabeth are common in both branches.

(4) The family characteristics are strikingly similar.

(5) The Virginia Brockmans, as we first see them, have just about the station in life, as prosperous leading planters, which we would expect from those coming from among the landed gentry.

(6) There is a fact which would seem to point to another conclusion, that is, the Kent Brockmans have always been churchmen; the Virginia Brockmans, as far as I can learn, have always been Baptists.†

* * *

Most sincerely,

FLETCHER SIMMS BROCKMAN.

S. S. Minnehaha, Atlantic Transport Line,

July 2, 1905.

MR. WHITFIELD BROCKMAN.

My Dear Whit: We have not kept in as close touch with each other this year as I had intended. I do not blame you for not writing, since I know by experience how important it is to save one's eyes after a hard day's work on the Chinese language. I had expected to see your letters to Mother, but, for some reason, she has not sent them to me. I think she sends them first to Frank and he forgets to forward them to me. This does not justify me, however, for not writing oftener than I have done.

Mary and I had a delightful trip to Europe. We are returning now and hope to start from Seattle on the Minnesota during the last week in August. We shall look eagerly for you at Yokohama. I understand that these large boats are apt to be long in making the trip and often much behind. So you must not be disappointed or discouraged if you have to wait.

I have been much delighted that you have done such good work on the Language and yet kept your health. We shall have much time to talk things over when we get together. I am sure that there shall be much of interest to discuss.

*Owing to the fact that the author had compiled this record before the letters of Mr. F. S. Brockman came into his hands, the suggestions contained therein have not been followed up. They are presented to substantiate some of the work of the author.—W. E. B.

†The author calls attention to the strife in England at this time between the church and state. History says, "Many prominent families left the country and sought freedom in the new Colonies."—W. E. B.

Mother had probably written you that I "tracked" the Brockman family down, so to speak, in England. The old manor house, which was bought by Sir Henry Brockman in 1455, is still standing and in possession of the family. We met several of the family who were most cordial, kind and anxious, as they said, to claim kin with us.

The family is a most honorable one in England as well as in Virginia. I will tell you much more about it when I reach China. * * *

Devotedly, your brother,

FLETCHER.

To Mr. W. W. Brockman,
Y. M. C. A., Peking Road,
Shanghai, China.

S. S. Minnehaha, July 7, 1905.

MRS. J. W. SIMPSON,
Spartanburg, S. C.

Dear Mrs. Simpson: Your excellent letter reached me in London in good time. Before receiving your letter, I had received one from Mr. Alfred Brockman, of Folkestone, who is much interested in the Brockman genealogy, and not less than elsewhere the American Branch, gave me these extracts from the Cheriton records. Henry, the son of William Brockman, baptized at Newington, Jan. 5, 1694. Henry, the son of William, gent., born in 1623. Before your letter came he suggested one of these as the original American Brockman, since there is no record of their death. The first is rather early to have sold land in Maryland in 1674. The second is just about the age we might expect. The William Brockman, gent., is in all probability the Sir William Brockman, of whom I wrote you. In the genealogy there put down, he is said to have two sons, Henry, who died without issue in 1622, and William, his successor. Mr. Alfred Brockman says, however, that it has long been the custom of the Brockmans to take the name of a deceased child for one of the younger children. Sir William was a pronounced loyalist, and led a force against Cromwell once at Maidstone in 1648, and was afterwards severely punished, that is, he was deposed as high Sheriff of Kent and heavily fined. It is not unlikely that his youngest son would, under such circumstances, find his chances in England very dark. His older brother would inherit the estate and his father would have no influence with the government to secure him advancement. He would naturally turn to the West Indies or America. All of this seems probable, but I have not been able to get any proof of it. After receiving your letter, I searched such records of the Maryland Historical Society as were in the British Museum and found that Capt. John Jourdain came to Maryland with a party of Hollanders, all of whom were naturalized by the legislature of Maryland. They seem to have been people of some prominence. What seems to have been most probable is that Henry Brockman went first to the Barbadoes and there met Capt. Jourdain and came with him to Maryland. There are several sources of information in London which I did not have time to investigate, namely, the Mss. concerning Maryland in the Public Records Office; the Will of Sir William Brockman. A still more likely source is the material which must exist at Beachborough, possibly letters from Sir William to his son, or of William to his brother. There is also the records of the Barbadoes.
* * *

Faithfully yours,

FLETCHER S. BROCKMAN.

THE AMERICAN BRANCH

BROCKMANS OF ENGLAND, THE BARBADOES, MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, NORTH AND SOUTH CAROLINA AND THE FAR SOUTH.

First Generation

1.

HENRY BROCKMAN was born the 8th and baptized the 16th of November, 1623, in Kent County, England, and in the Manor House of Beachborough, bought by his ancestor Sir Henry Brockman in the year 1455. The exact date of his settlement in Maryland and his removal to Virginia is not known. The following record will furnish what information the author has of his Maryland life. Some time previous to 1674 Capt. John Jourdain came from England via the Barbadoes, bringing many immigrants with him, as shown by the following record:

In the Land Commissioner's Office, Annapolis, Md., there is the following reference to Henry Brockman: "Henry Brockman came and proved right to fifty acres of land for his term of service to Capt. John Jourdain, of St. Marie's County, Md., April 27, 1674." (Vol. 18, folio 13.)

There is no record of the Will of Henry Brockman. In reply to some inquiries made, the following information was given: "The Lord Proprietary of Maryland offered a bounty of 50 acres of land to any person who would come to this province to inhabit it. It seems that Capt. John Jourdain paid the expenses of Henry Brockman to this province, he agreeing to serve him in any way that he desired. At the expiration of that agreement Henry Brockman was entitled to 50 acres of land; as to term of service, we cannot explain; he may have been secretary to the Captain or served in some other capacity. We find no record of a grant to Henry Brockman. On April 27, 1674, Henry Brockman assigned his right to 50 acres of land for Term of Service unto Thomas Salmon (Liber 18, folio 13.) We have no record of marriages in this office. The most complete record of Parish marriages, including all vital records, will be found at the Maryland Historical Society, Baltimore, Md."

On account of the lack of County Records in many of the early settled counties of Virginia, we have not been able to prove conclusively the children of Henry Brockman. However, we present here what we believe to be correct. All available records have been searched for the Will of Henry Brockman, but without success. In King and Queen County, Va., where we first find the Brockman family, no records are available earlier than 1850, the rest having been destroyed by the "Common Enemy in 1861—65."

Second Generation

2.

SAMUEL BROCKMAN (1) of King and Queen County, Spottsylvania, and Orange, is believed to be the progenitor of the several lines of Brockmans in Virginia, North and South Carolina, and the far south. Samuel Brockman resided, during the early part of his life, in King and Queen County, Virginia. He was a wealthy planter and owned a large number of slaves. By a Deed which will be submitted, Samuel Brockman moved from King and Queen to what was then Spottsylvania County, Va., but is now a part of Orange. The transfer took place in 1732, and Orange was formed from Spottsylvania in 1734.

Louisa County was formed from Hanover in 1742. The county is watered by the North and South Anna rivers. The surface hilly and the soil medium but has suffered some injuries from lack of system in agriculture. Several gold mines have been opened in the county but have not been worked to any extent. It was in Louisa County that Lafayette matched his forces with Wayne at the Raccoon ford on the North Anna River. He crossed the river south of this point where Brock's bridge now stands. Louisa first sent Patrick Henry as a delegate to the House in 1765.

Last Will and Testament of Samuel Brockman, Deceased.

In the name of God Amen.

I, Samuel Brockman, of the County of Orange and the Colony of Virginia, being in health and sound and perfect mind (Blessed be God), Do make & Ordain this my last will and testament in the manner and form following. (That is to say) I will that all such debts as I shall owe, justly, at the time of my death, and my funeral charges and expenses be in the first place paid by my executors hereinafter named, and as to my estate both real and personal I dispose thereof as follows:

Impremis. I give and devise unto my sons Samuel & William the tract of land which I have in Albemarle County containing about Three Hundred and Fifty Acres, to them and their heirs forever. To be divided by them as they themselves shall think proper.

Item. Whereas I formerly intended to give unto my late son, John, the tract of land containing One Hundred and Fifty Acres which he lived on at the time of his death, and by his last will and testament did devise the said land to his son, Joseph, and to prevent any dispute which might arise touching the said Joseph's title to the said land, I do hereby confirm the said gift and do by this my last will and testament give and devise the said One Hundred and Fifty Acres of land to him, the said Joseph, who is my grandson, & his heirs forever.

Item. I lend unto my beloved wife, Mary, during her natural life only, my land whereon I now live and all my negroes, and also all my other estate of what kind or quality so ever not devised, and after her decease I give, bequeath and devise the said estate which I have lent her as follows: I give and devise to my son Samuel the said tract of land I now live on to him and his heirs forever. I also give him one negro wench named Dinah, and my will is that he possess the same immediately after the death of my wife. I also give and bequeath unto my son William one young negro wench named Phillis, to him and his heirs forever and that he possess the said Wench immediately after the death of my said wife. I give and bequeath unto my daughter, Mary Singleton, one negro man named George to her and her heirs forever. I give and bequeath unto my daughter, Elizabeth Street, one negro child named Winnie, also Fifteen pounds current money, to her and her heirs forever. I give and bequeath to my daughter, Sarah Henderson, one negro boy, named Hercules, to her and her heirs forever, and it is my will and desire that my said daughters shall enjoy the said legacies immediately after the death of my wife. I give and bequeath to my two sons, Samuel & William, one negro man named Peter, in trust for the benefit and maintenance of my daughter, Rachel Rogers, during her natural life, and my will is that the said negro, Peter, shall descend after her decease to such of the said Rachel's children as shall be living at the time of her death, and it is my further will and intention that this legacy shall be enjoyed immediately after the death of my wife according to the true meaning and intention thereof, and all the rest and residue of my estate I do hereby direct and it is my will that the same be at the death of my wife equally divided amongst my sons and daughters that shall be then living, and the children of such other of my sons and daughters as are now or shall be then dead, that is to say, such of my Grand children shall not be entitled to any greater share than what their father or mother would have been entitled to if they had been living at the time of such division, and in case the contingency of any of my children dying in the lifetime of their mother, my will is that the above legacies shall be at their disposal in the same manner as if they were in full possession of the same. Lastly, I do hereby constitute my two sons, Samuel & William Brockman, Executors of this my last will and hereby revoking, making null and void all and every will or wills by me heretofore made, declaring this only to be my last will & testament.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this third day of November, One Thousand seven Hundred and sixty two.

*Records are confusing. There is some question in my mind about this Elizabeth Brockman being a daughter of Wm. and Elizabeth Brockman.—Brockman.

December 5, 1925.

Dear Mr. Brockman: Have been waiting to hear from Mrs. Spangler but as yet have not. Am enclosing proof of Wm. Brockman and his wife Elizabeth also his children. You will see that Eleanor and not Moses Brockman descended from William. I saw the record in the Court House at Burlington, Boone County, and we were so pleased at the explanation, it would seem it had been written that way for a purpose, "Eleanor Brockman wife of Moses Brockman." So you see Moses is still without an ancestor.

The daughter of Eleanor and Moses married Elijah Rogers and I am working on the Rogers' line now, but will not be able to complete it for a year, as we leave in February for six months in Europe.

What will the cost per page for material submitted on Brockman line be? There are only a few interested, I believe, would like to know if you had records examined at Albemarle County in regard to Samuel and Rebecca. I have made the copy from my original copy which was sworn to.

Very sincerely,

NOLA S. EICHELZER.

Deed Book 21, Page 446. In Clerk's office in Orange, Virginia, I find a deed stating and proving that Elizabeth Smith was the wife of William Brockman.

At a court held for Orange County on Monday, the 24th of June, 1799, this indenture of agreement between Thomas Smith, Elizabeth Brockman, James Smith, William Brockman controlling the estate of Thomas Smith, the father of Elizabeth Brockman.

Witnesses, Jos. Barbour, Thos. Barbour, Richard Barbour, Samuel Brockman.

Signed by MRS. FANNY STORRIE, Researcher.

Book A, Page 430 T. Brockman heirs to John Brockman, whereas William (now deceased), died intestate in the state of Kentucky in or about the year 1812, seized of a certain tract of land containing about 221¼ acres,

And whereas the said legatees of the said William Brockman, deceased, have jointly and severally agreed to relinquish to Elizabeth Brockman (widow of the said deceased) each of their right and title to the 221 acres of land aforesaid during her natural life, and whereas Mildred Brockman, Eleanor Brockman (wife of Moses Brockman), Nancy Brockman, Catherine and Sally Brockman, five of the daughters of the said William Brockman, deceased, are each entitled in the reversion to one equal ninth part of so much of said tract of 221 acres after the death of said widow aforesaid,

Now, therefore, this deed made the 4th day of December, 1816, between the said Mildred Brockman and John Brockman.

In a deed from William Brockman to Lucinda, wife of John Brockman, I find that William Brockman conveyed  $\frac{2}{9}$  of this 221 acres, his share as son of said Brockman, and a  $\frac{1}{9}$  share which he bought from William and Jane Dollins, Jane being mentioned as another heir of said Brockman.

Also a deed from the seven heirs of Elizabeth Brockman Mahanes, Albemarle County, shows that she is another daughter of said William Brockman.

At a court begun and held at Boone Court House in Boone County, Kentucky, on Monday, 7th day of September, 1812.

On motion of Andrew Brockman letters of administration of the estate of William Brockman, deceased, is granted herein, who entered into bond with William Brockman and Moses Brockman, his securities in the penalty of two thousand dollars conditioned as the law directs.

Signed, Will Lebree, Jas. Graves, Abraham De Pew, Moses Scott, Weden Sleet, Mark McPherson. Sworn to by M. E. Rogers, Clerk of Boone County.

The Line of Moses Brockman

We have been unable to trace the ancestry of Moses Brockman, but it is believed that he moved from Virginia to Boone County, Ky., early in the 19th century. As shown by the records of Orange County on March 23, 1786, Moses Perry married Susan, daughter of a Samuel Brockman. The possibility establishes a line of kinship and it is likely that Moses Brockman was a nephew of Susan.

Woods History of Albemarle County states on page 389, "that Elizabeth and Moses Brockman emigrated to Boone County, Kentucky, early in the century."

Moses Brockman left Kentucky in 1828, went to Clinton County, Indiana, settled and died there.

Susannah Brockman, daughter of Moses Brockman, was born September 14th, 1779, died October 12th, 1884. (Taken from tombstone) in Clinton County, Indiana.

Susannah Brockman married Elijah Rogers in Kentucky, went to Clinton County, Indiana, 1828, lived and died there. Moses Brockman is said to have gone to Kentucky through the influence of Daniel Boone.

In the pages to follow you will read several letters from Mrs. Nola Sparks Eichelzer. Mrs. Eichelzer was a daughter of Elijah Sparks and Elizabeth Sparks. Elijah Sparks was a son of Allen Sparks and wife Nancy, who was the son of James Sparks and Elizabeth Ray Sparks. Nancy Sparks was a daughter of Elijah Rogers and Susannah Brockman, a daughter of Moses and Elizabeth Brockman.

Dear Mr. Brockman: In August I made a visit to my old home in Clinton County, Indiana, with the hope of getting some information of the family genealogy. My Aunt, Mrs. Sarah Sparks Miller of Frankfort, Indiana, told me that my great grandmother was a Brockman of Virginia, and that through the influence of Daniel Boone, Moses Brockman, her father went to Kentucky and then moved to Clinton County, Indiana, in 1828. One of his daughters, Susan, married Elijah Rogers. Their daughter Nancy was my grandmother. She married Allen Sparks and they had three children, Elijah, my father, Sarah, who lives in Frankfort, and John S. My father and John died some years ago.

When I returned to Detroit I went to the Burton Historical Library and found your interesting book of the Brockman family.

I wish to become a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and in looking through the records found that Samuel Brockman of Virginia, was a Lieutenant in the Revolutionary war. If I had the right I should like to qualify through him for membership in the organization. There are records in Clinton County stating when the Brockman and Rogers families moved to Indiana.

My aunt also told me that we are related to Col. Richard Taylor through the Brockmans.

As you have made such an extensive study of the family history I am taking the liberty of thus writing you to ascertain if possible if I am a lineal descendant of the Samuel Brockman who was head of the family in Virginia in 1790.

If I am I shall purchase one of the books without delay.

NOLA SPARKS EICHELZER.

Dear Mr. Brockman: Have been interested in the Brockman records for several years and have made several trips to Kentucky and Virginia searching records.

I am a descendant of William Brockman, one of the three sons of Samuel and Mary (Henderson) Brockman.

Have just learned that you are rewriting your book and wish to pass one thing on to you. My research shows that William, son of the old Samuel, married Elizabeth Smith. Have proof that this is the right William by a deed in Albemarle County showing that Wm. Brockman and wife Elizabeth sold to Samuel and wife Rebecca their share of the land willed them jointly (Samuel and Wm.), in 1759 by their father Samuel, consisting of 350 acres in Albemarle County. Wm. Brockman was one of the signers of the Orange Petition and served in the Revolutionary war. His daughter Eleanor married Moses Brockman (perhaps a cousin). Wm. and his family and Moses and Eleanor went to Kentucky and Wm. died there in 1812. Only two weeks ago we drove past the old farm and saw where the mill had been. Moses and Eleanor are buried in Clinton County, Indiana, and have seen their stones. Have searched far and wide but cannot find from whom Moses Brockman descended. He served in the war of 1812 in Kentucky.

Have made the research for sentiment only and if this will help will be pleased.

Very sincerely,

MRS. EDW. H. (NOLA S.) EICHELZER.

November 9, 1925.

Dear Mr. Brockman: I went to Washington, October 19th, with the intention of going on to Virginia, but was taken ill so could not make the trip, much to my regret. I wanted to verify a statement of a deed in Albemarle County which is and no doubt will interest you. Page 118, Book 5, is the transfer to "Samuel Brockman and wife Rebecca by William Brockman, the land willed to them by their father Samuel (350 acres) in 1759." It seems Samuel Brockman and Rebecca lived in Albemarle County while William and wife Elizabeth lived in Orange, near the Albemarle line. William was a miller on Priddy's Creek, also a miller after he went to Boone County, Ky.

William was born 1740, died 1812, in Boone County, Ky. He married Elizabeth Smith of Orange and children were William, John, Elizabeth, Jane, Mildred, Eleanor, Nancy, Sally and Catherine.

Samuel Brockman, whose wife was Rebecca, died 1792.

It seems clear to me that my William is the son of the old Samuel. Transfers of land in William's family by his children show that they bought back the old homestead willed to Joseph, son of John, which Joseph had sold. Your William did not marry until 1784. It seems a latter generation to me.

I do not feel like getting my line in shape. Have been ill for weeks and am planning to take a long trip abroad. But I feel so sure that my William is the right one and know you want to be sure also before going on. I know you could get a copy of the deed if you care for it.

While in Washington I met Dr. Fletcher Brockman. My husband and I are interested in his work. He is a fine man.

This is the first I have written since writing you last and trust you will accept it in the way I mean it, just to help if I can.

Much success to you.

Very sincerely,

NOLA S. EICHELZER.

My William was one of the signers of Orange Petitions in Orange County, 1782.

November 22, 1925.

Dear Mr. Brockman: I must plead illness again in neglecting to answer your letter.

My research begins with the old Samuel Brockman and wife Mary (Henderson) Brockman, who had sons, Samuel, John and William. I think you start with the son Samuel, who is the second Samuel, and my William, born 1740, died 1812, was a brother.

I do think it would prove very satisfactory to you to have the records of deeds of Albemarle County examined. In that way I learned that "Samuel the second" wife's name was Rebecca. This was from the deed where William sold his share of the 350 acres of land willed William and Samuel jointly (1759) to use or dispose of as they wished, Book 5, page 118. This Samuel died 1792, leaving a son, Samuel, who married Nancy Durrett of Orange County in 1791. Also a son William, who lived in Albemarle County. Also found a record showing that William B. appointed his son Ambrose to look after his business, which name corresponds with your own. My William, brother of Samuel, who died 1792, also had sons, William, Jr., and John. The family all went to Boone County, Ky., in about 1806, William, Jr., went on to Howard County, Mo.

Have examined your book several times at Detroit Library and to me it gives the impression that your William is the son of the old Samuel of the will. That William is mine and your William begins with the next generation or the second Samuel.

Do hope you will examine Albemarle records to verify "Rebecca." I have proof from Tax Records of Orange County that Samuel the third and William began paying taxes on the inheritance from their father, who died 1792.

Mrs. Stovin of Orange did a great deal of research for me and she was fine. She proved my William a son of the old Samuel. Mrs. Stovin died two years ago quite suddenly. I understand Mrs. Wine is doing your work. She tried to do some work for me on my Rogers line of Culpeper.

This is a very important piece of work and only wish I were able to go to Virginia and look through the records again.

Very sincerely,

NOLA S. EICHELZER.

Jacob Crossthwaite—Born May 12th, 1730.

Mary Brockman—Born Sept. 15, 1745.

Married October 11, 1764.

Dates of deaths not given.

Tabitha Taylor Phelps

My grandmother was a beautiful woman of much dignity, black eyes and hair and bore a striking resemblance to her mother, Mrs. Nancy Crossthwaite Taylor. My father, Thomas Phelps, bore a striking resemblance to his mother. He was 6 feet 2 inches tall and one of the handsomest men I have ever seen,—brown eyes and his hair turned gray at 70 years. The brown eyes and hair were from grandmother Taylor. Tabitha Taylor Phelps, you see, valued her Brockman descent so highly that she put Brockman the names of three of her children. In 1910 while in Rome, Italy, I had the portraits painted in oil of my father and mother by Liguor Guido Gindi, to whom I carried a letter of introduction. My mother was with me and sat for hers, but I only had a small wood cut of my father. Portraits of my father and mother painted before this are owned by my sister. The Rome portrait of my father is excellent. The Taylor name is extinct since the three sons who married left only daughters. Partial list of slaves of Peter Taylor.

WILLIAM BROCKMAN (3) of Albemarle County lived on Priddy's Creek, owned a considerable quantity of land, and had one of the first mills erected in that section. He died in 1809. A Baptist Church, the predecessor of the present Priddy Creek Church, was on his land, and he devised it to the congregation, who used it as a place of worship.

Following is the Will of William Brockman:

WILLIAM BROCKMAN'S WILL

Will Book No. 5, Page 16, Albemarle Co., Va.

In the name of God, Amen. I, William Brockman, of the County of Albemarle and State of Virginia, Being through the mercy of God in middling health and perfect understanding, do constitute this my last will and testament after the discharge of all my lawful debts. Item, I give and bequeath to each of my daughters and their children forever as hereafter named, the following sums of money in lieu of several tracts of land already given to my sons, which they have in possession, Viz.,

I give to my daughter Frances Taylor and her children forever the sum of one hundred pounds current money.

I give to Grand-daughter Nancey Wells, one hundred pounds of the like money which is to be taken out of her mother's part of my estate. Item, I give and bequeath to my daughter, Elizabeth Brockman and her children forever, one hundred pounds of the like money. Item, I give and bequeath to my daughter, Peggy Henderson, and her children forever, one hundred pounds of the like money. Item, I give and bequeath to my daughter, Catherine Bell, and her children forever, one hundred pounds of the like money. Item, as my son, John Brockman, deceased, has had already one hundred and fifty pounds of my estate, now in the hands of his son, Elijah Brockman, which he is to account for on demand, to be evenly divided between the children of the said John Brockman, deceased, the said Elijah Brockman to have his equal part. Item, I give and bequeath to my grand-children, the children of the said John Brockman, deceased, one hundred and fifty pounds of my estate, to be equally divided amongst the whole of them and their heirs forever.

Item, it is my desire that the said grand-children shall have a child's part of my estate also to be equally divided amongst them at the division of my estate.

Thomas Brockman, my son, has already received to the amount of one hundred acres of land, and is to pay eighteen pounds to the estate at the division of the estate.

Item, I give to my son, William Brockman, and his children forever, one hundred acres of land, part of Dixon's tract, joining Thomas Douglas's. If there is not a good and lawful right made to the said William Brockman, some of that hundred acres of land, he is to receive five dollars per acre in lieu thereof, my son, William Brockman, some, and his children forever to have a surplus of land of the said Dickson tract, beginning at the mill ford on Priddy's Creek and running up the lane and up the road to a line formerly laid off for Ambrose Brockman and from there to the mill pond, for which he is to pay in to my estate, five dollars per acre when he gets possession of the said surplus land. If the said surplus is not cleared out in my life time, then there must be five dollars per acre left out of my estate for to clear the said land.

Item, I give and bequeath to son, Ambrose Brockman, and his children forever, one hundred acres of land adjoining Walker's line, there being a surplus of land joining the said (hundred) left in the south side of the road, for which he is to pay twenty shillings per acre for all over the said one hundred acres, and it is my desire that my son, Ambrose Brockman and his children forever shall have the land that lies on the south side of the road at my death on payment of twenty shillings per acre into my estate.

Item, I give and bequeath to the children of my son, Samuel Brockman, deceased, one hundred and fifty acres of land whereon I now live, and that the said children of Samuel Brockman, deceased, shall pay into my estate the sum of five dollars per acre for all the land over one hundred and fifty acres which is included in the tract whereon I now live. Item, I give and bequeath to the Baptist Society and for their use, the meeting house and spring and what land is within the circumscribed bounds as marked. Item, I also will and ordain that all the remaining part of my estate, real and personal, including all the rest of my land, Mill (etc.), shall be sold and the money arising from such sale equally to be divided amongst those hereinafter named, except, Frances Taylor's hundred pounds before recited for,

Nancy Wells and Thomas Brockman's eighteen pounds to be paid into the estate, Viz;—

Frances Taylor, Elizabeth Brockman, and the children of John Brockman, deceased, Peggy Henderson, Thomas Brockman, William Brockman, Ambrose Brockman, and the children of Samuel Brockman, deceased, Catherine Bell, etc.

My Dear Mr. Brockman: I have been trying for some time to straighten out my friend's line of Brockmans, but so far I have been unable to do so. I have also been trying to purchase one of the books you compiled, as I felt that I could place my line or rather one of my Brockman lines. Do you have any more copies, if not could you send me one of your copies to read and I will return same promptly. I can give you any reference you may want. I am the Historian of our D. A. R. Chapter here.

I find in the Census of 1790 that there were at that time the following Brockmans in Albemarle County, Virginia, as heads of families: John, Lewis, Samuel, Samuel, Jr., William, also another William, and I also find the same heads of families in Orange County.

I do not know that one of the above heads of families was our family because I have the following data: William Brockman was born Jan. 17, 1777, and his wife was also a Brockman. Lucy Brockman was born Jan. 19, 1787, and they were married in Albemarle County, in February 3, 1806, by the Rev. Jacob Watts. Their children were Burlinda Brockman. Born October 22, 1807, and Willis Brockman, born August 13th, 1809, and Nancy Brockman, born Sept. 4, 1811; Simms Brockman (our line), born May 22nd, 1813; John Brockman, born Jan. 11, 1816; Elizabeth Emry, born March 25, 1818; William M., born Jan. 27, 1829; Ellen, born Aug. 28, 1822, and Julian Brockman, born Jan. 28, 1825.

Now, can you tell me who the parents of either William or Lucy were? It would seem that we ought to get a Revolutionary ancestor from one of these lines. That is what I am most anxious to get right now. Please let me hear from you at your very earliest convenience. I have been working on this line so long that I am beginning to get out of patience.

Yours sincerely,

MRS. GEORGE SPANGLER.

JOHN BROCKMAN (2) of Spottsylvania and Orange Counties, Va., married Mary ———, and had a large family. The name of his wife is not known for certain, but is thought to have been Collins, as evidence of which I quote from the Will of Joseph Collins:

"Spottsylvania County, Va., Nov. 11, 1752. Part of my estate to my daughter Mary Brockman. * * * This Will is signed by Joseph Collins and witnessed by Samuel and William Brockman."

In 1752 John Brockman purchased land in Louisa County from Philipp Aylett (Elliott), on the Northanna River. Previous to this he resided with his father, Samuel Brockman, in St. Thomas Parish, Orange County. He was a prosperous land owner and owned a large number of slaves. He died before his father in 1756.

The following Deed to John Brockman was copied from the records at Louisa, Va., by the author:

He enlisted in the 88th regiment north of the Three Notch Road, 1st Battalion. Previous to the War he was a Baptist minister. No record is available of their children.

8

SAMUEL BROCKMAN (4) of Albemarle County, died before 1807. His wife was Ann, daughter of Capt. William Sims, and sister to his brother's wife. He was a Revolutionary soldier and served as Ensign, 1st Lieut., and Captain, having enlisted in the regiment with his brother Ambrose.

William Sims lived in the northeastern part of the county on the waters of Priddy's Creek and Blue Run. The first mention of his name occurs in 1779, when he bought land in that neighborhood from Josiah Bush. He was a captain of a militia company in the War of the Revolution. He built one of the first mills on Priddy's Creek, and for many years it was a noted point in that vicinity. He died in 1797. He and his wife Agatha had nine daughters and two sons, as follows: Mary, the wife of John During; Elizabeth, the wife of Jno. McCann; Lucy, the wife of Jno. Dalton; Joanna, the wife of James Onsley; Ann, the wife of Samuel Brockman; Nancy, the wife of Ambrose Brockman; Agatha, the wife of Catterton; Frances, the wife of Richard Flint; and Rosamond, the wife of Joseph Williams; Robert and John were the two boys. James Sims, who lived in the same section, was probably a brother to William, certainly the guardian of his younger children. He was twice married, first to Mildred, daughter of Richard Durett, and second, to J—— Earley. He had two sons, Richard and Isaac.

Richard D. married Elizabeth, daughter of David Clarkson, and his children were Elizabeth, the wife of Edward Wingfield; Jane, the wife of Tandy Brockman; Cornelia, the wife of Rev. Robt. Watts; and Lucy Ann, the wife of James D. Watts. His home was near the mouth of Priddy's Creek. He died in 1862.

Isaac died in the Buck Mountain District in 1836. His wife was Nancy Catterton.

Following are the children of Samuel Brockman:

- 12    1. Richard Simms Brockman, m. Martha (Patsy) Dickerson.
- 13    2. Tandy Brockman, m. Jane Sims.
3. Blueford Brockman.
4. Tazewell Brockman.
5. Simpson Brockman.
6. Agatha Brockman, m. Thomas Edwards.

SAMUEL BROCKMAN (5d) of Trinity Parish, Louisa County, Virginia, was the oldest son of John and Mary Brockman. The name of his wife is not known. A daughter Susan married Moses Perry, and had children, Nancy and Jessie Perry, as shown by the Orange County Records on March 23, 1786, a license was issued for Moses Perry and Susan Brockman, with Samuel Brockman, presumably her father, signing as security for performance of the marriage contract. It is thought that Samuel Brockman also had a daughter, Sarah, as we find that on September 14, 1784, a license was issued for marriage of Thomas Bibb and Sarah daughter of Samuel Brockman. Mrs. Edna White McCampbell thinks that Jane Brockman, who married Roderick Perry, was also a daughter of Samuel Brockman. The correspondence relative to it will be found in the following pages.

Roderick Perry of Louisa County, Va., October 8, 1792, sold to Edmund Burton of the same County two hundred acres therein, Roderick Perry's wife, Jane, joining in the transfer—Louisa, Louisa Co., Va., County Clerk's Office Book G. Page 241.

Thomas Perry of Albemarle County, Va., made his will on Sept. 19, 1817, and it was proved June 2, 1818. In it he mentioned his sons, William, Thomas, and Thornton; also his daughters, ——— Langford, Polly Fitch or Fitz, Patrick, Elizabeth Bates and Sally Eaiter.

Charlottesville, Albemarle Co., Va., County Clerk's Office, Book 6, Page 293.

It is probable that Nancy (Perry) White belonged to the same Perry family as the above mentioned Perry's.

Excerpt from a letter from Mrs. J. H. Webber, a granddaughter of Nancy (Perry) White.

"Dear Edna: I received your letter yesterday afternoon, was glad to hear from you and to know that someone else in the family feels an interest in our lineage. . . . He (Robert White) married Miss Perry of Va., a cousin of Commodore Perry.

Sincerely,

Nashville, May 16, 1906.

Cousin Lou."

Records from Nancy (Perry) White's Family Bible owned by Mrs. Leslie M. Stratton, Memphis, Tenn.

Robert White was born Feb. 1, 1777. Nancy White, his wife, was born March 10, 1784. They were married March 20, 1800.

Dear Mr. Brockman: Through the courtesy of Mrs. E. M. Kennedy I have had access to your most interesting book, Hume, Kennedy and Brockman families.

Samuel Brockman of Trinity Parish, Louisa County, Virginia, had grandchildren, Nancy Perry and Jessie Perry, Louisa, Louisa County, Virginia, County Clerk's Office, Book 1, Page 107.

Persistent tradition in the Tennessee branch of this family says Nancy Perry was a cousin of Commodore Perry. If possible will you kindly refer me genealogies of the Perry family that will prove this tradition?

Will you please tell me, also, who was the father of Samuel Brockman of Trinity Parish, Louisa County, Virginia? I shall greatly appreciate this information.

Edna White McCampbell.

Mr. W. E. Brockman: Before the second edition of the Brockman book is published I very much hope that the line of Samuel Brockman of Trinity Parish, Louisa County, Virginia, can be completed.

I have compiled a great deal of genealogical data on the Perry, White and Poindexter families of Virginia. These families were connected with the Washington Pages and practically all of the old colonial families of Virginia. I do not know the name of Nancy Perry's father and mother. She was a cousin of Commodore Perry, if family tradition is correct in this case. When further data is collected on the Samuel Brockman line it may be that data on Nancy Perry will be found. She was born in 1784 and married Robert White in 1800.

I am much interested in the second edition of the Brockman book and trust it will not be long before it comes out.

Dear Mr. Brockman,

Your letter of Dec. 1st has just been received.

If Samuel Brockman of Trinity Parish, Louisa County, had a daughter, Jane, I believe she was the wife of Roderick Perry.

I am enclosing an excerpt from a letter, from Miss Lida B. Perry, who has considerable data on the Perrys.

It is probable that Roderick Perry was descended from Edward Perry of St. Mary's County, Maryland, likewise, the latter may have been a descendant of Samuel Perry, who married Mary Tucker, May 9, 1690. The Brockmans were in Maryland before going to Virginia, and I trust the enclosed notes may assist you in connecting the two lines.

Very truly yours,
(Mrs. H. H.) Edna White McCampbell.

Samuel Perry, m. first Dec. 12, 1678, Mary Miller and by her had Mehitable, b. April 30, 1680, and Jacial, b. May 6, 1682. He married, second, May 9, 1690, Mary Tucker, b. Aug. 16, 1668, died in 1716, daughter of Henry and Martha Tucker of Sandwich. The children of this marriage were: James, died 1774; Edward; Samuel, b. 1695, died Dec. 21, 1775; Simeon; Benjamin, b. 1701. . . . Genealogy, number 21, May 25, 1912, page 161.

Ibid—The Perrys of Rhode Island, by Rev. Calbrail Bourn Perry. Vol. I, page 47.

Edward Perry of St. Mary's County, Maryland, had at least four sons, Edward, Jr., Hugh, Nathan Washington and Thomas. He may have had other children. Part of the family remained in Maryland but Nathan Washington and probably Thomas went to Newberry District, S. C.

Nathan and Thomas lived in Virginia for a time, after leaving Maryland, before going to South Carolina. Phoebe, daughter of Nathan Washington, claimed to be a third cousin of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry. . . . Excerpt from a letter from Miss Lida B. Perry, R. F. D. 3, Carthage, Mo.

"Nathan Washington Perry was born 1755."

I am the daughter of Alpheus Gustavus White, b. Dec. 1, 1851, died Dec. 29, 1921, and his wife, Fannie B. (Bainbridge) White, b. Jan. 22, 1858, died Aug. 20, 1883, m. Dec. 5, 1878.

Alpheus Gustavus White was the son of Thomas A. White, b. July 27, 1819, died Sept. 18, 1884, and his wife, Elizabeth T. Boren, b. Feb. 8, 1831, died July 23, 1852, m. Dec. 24, 1848.

Thomas A. White was the son of Robert White, b. Feb. 1, 1777, and his wife, Nancy Perry, b. March 1, 1784, m. March 20, 1800.

If Nancy (Perry) White was the daughter of Roderick and Jane (Brockman) Perry the line given above will connect me with the Brockman line.

Fannie B. (Bainbridge) White was the grand-daughter of James Bugg.—William and Mary Quarterly, Vol. 10, No. 4, April, 1902, page 269.

JOHN BROCKMAN (5) of St. Thomas Parish, Orange County, Virginia, married Amelia Martin. He was born in Virginia about the year 1740, where he resided until all of his children were born, and most of them grown. He then moved to North Carolina, and thence to South Carolina. A record in the Bible of his grandson, Col. Thomas Brockman, showing the death of John Brockman, Sr., as having taken place Aug. 13, 1825, is thought to be the record of our subject. Mr. Brockman was a Colonel in the American Revolution.

My Dear Mr. Brockman:

I have succeeded in finding military data of John Brockman and I take pleasure in sending the information to you.

Mr. C. A. Norris of Raleigh, N. C., was most helpful to me. My application for membership was favorably passed upon and I now am a D. A. R. I am still working on John Owen for supplementary papers.

John Brockman enlisted from Caswell County, N. C., and adjoining County to Gilford County. So you see it was during his stay in North Carolina that he served in war.

I listed him "Officer" in my application, as size of pay warranted my listing it. His mention as being paid for services is the only record Mrs. Norris could find, but that was sufficient for our papers. My papers were sent in June 1st and returned by June 10th. I copied the family history from your book, also referred them to your history. I appreciate any kindness you have done in the past, and it is a great pleasure to send you a copy of my record.

Cordially yours,

QUISENBERY.

(From Quisenberry Family, by A. C. Quisenberry.)

The Quisenberry family of America is descended from Thomas Quisenberry, of England, who settled in Virginia in 1624. He descended from Henrich Von Questenberry, of Cologne, Germany, who became a citizen of England about 1468, and who was of the elder branch of the family of Questenberry at Cologne.

Falmer Cologne Berglish Families says: "The Questenbergs or Quisenberrys, a Cologne family, is remarkable, as it rose in three generations from ordinary burghs, to become Barons, Counts, and Imperial Counts."

Henrich von Questenberg was the founder of the English branch of the family. He was educated at Cologne University. As a young man he went to England in connection with the Hanseatic interests of his family, and in 1467 married an English girl, Catherine, of Canterbury. For this, which they considered an offense to the family, he was dis-inherited and expelled from the Hanseatic League. He then became a permanent citizen of England. His son, Augustine Questenberry, married and had four children, as follows:

1. John Questenberry, of Canterbury, England.
2. Henry, of Leeds, Kent.
3. James, of Leeds, Kent.
4. Thomas.

Thomas, the fourth son, was the founder of the American branch of the family. He was born in Bromley, Kent, in 1608, and came to America in 1624. Later he returned to England, where he married a young lady of Canterbury, and with her, returned to Virginia, Westmoreland County. Their children were:

Frances, died single in Virginia. John Quisenberry was born in Westmoreland County in 1627, and died there in 1717. He married Ann Pope, a cousin to the Ann Pope, who married John Washington, the great-great-grandfather of George Washington. They had three children, as follows: John Quisenberry, d. s. p. William Quisenberry left a number of children, whose descendants are scattered throughout the United States. One, Nicholas Quisenberry, about 1850, married Rose Green, of Georgetown, D. C., whose sister married the son of the Emperor Yeunbide, of Mexico.

The third child, Humphrey Quisenberry, was born in Westmoreland County in 1670, and died in King George in ershead. Their children were as follows:

Humphrey Quisenberry married and had one daughter, Mary, who married John Marshall, uncle of Chief Justice John Marshall. They had one son, Humphrey Marshall, who was U. S. Senator from Kentucky from 1759 to 1801. He was the author of the famous book known as "Marshall's History of Kentucky."

Thomas Quisenberry, the second son of Humphrey Quisenberry, was born in King George County, and died there in 1795. His wife was Joyce Dudley, the daughter of Robert and Joyce Dudley, of Spottsylvania. Their son, Aaron, lived and died in Orange County. He was twice married. The name of his first wife is not known to the author; his second wife was Sallie Ellis. They had thirteen children:

1. Stephen Quisenberry.
2. Thomas Quisenberry.
3. Aaron Shelly Quisenberry, m. Henrietta Reynolds, and moved to Louisville, Ky. Their grandson was for many years the manager of the Louisville Courier Journal.
4. David.

CREST: Un panache de cine feur de autride, escartle se or et de azure.

The English or the elder branch of the Quisenberry family became extinct in 1701; the Cologne in 1794. The younger branch went to Austria but became extinct there in 1794, at the death of Count Johann Anthon von Questenberry. A still younger branch settled in Silesia and became extinct somewhat later. Only the American, or elder branch, now survives.

MR. WILLIAM E. BROCKMAN,
1012 B. Street, N. E.,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Brockman: I thank you very much for your letter of Jan. 29th, and the additional records of the Brockman family that came with it. You certainly have done splendidly. When I return to China I shall be able to give you some additional data. There is a Will of one of the Brockmans at Orange, C. H., which I secured several years ago, that shows the connection between the Virginia and the North and South Carolina Brockmans. There was a Major Brockman, the son of John Brockman, who went to North Carolina. He was referred to in the Will as a child not yet born. One of the transfers of property at Louisa Courthouse shows the connection between the unborn child and Major Brockman. This connects up with the Brockman-Clark book which you have no doubt seen.

AND THEIR TWO CHILDREN, WILLIS BLOCKER AND ROSA WOOD BROCKMAN.

If I am able to get to Washington before I return to China, I shall certainly connect with you.

I have a brother, Whitfield Brockman, who is General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at University, Va., who will be able to help you on our line.

With kindest regards, I am, Faithfully yours,

To W. E. BROCKMAN,
Washington, D. C.

Your letter of request at hand, and I am sorry that I have so limited information in regard to the ancestry of the Brockman family, but will do the best that I can. Your great grandfather was Asa Brockman, a citizen of Orange County, who died the first year of the Civil War. He had eight sons and two daughters, all of the sons veterans of the South. Two of them, Asa and James, gave their lives for their country. Each one volunteered to serve; two were wounded, but survived. My husband, William Brockman, was a sharpshooter for four years. We were married in 1867, and he died Jan. 20, 1900. All of the brothers are dead except Allie Brockman,* a resident and farmer of Lou-

HENRY WILLIAM CLARK (45) was born in Laurens District, S. C., May 22, 1825. The family moved to the State of Ga., when he was a child, in 1829. He professed religion when he was about fifteen years old, and became a member of the Baptist Church. In after years, while residing in Montgomery, Ala., he was clerk for many years of the church which he joined as a boy.

In the month of May, 1870, Mr. Clark moved to the city of Montgomery, Ala., and took possession of a purchase he made for ten thousand dollars. For several years he was engaged in the life insurance business. In 1876 he engaged in the manufacture and sale of yellow pine lumber, and was thus employed for twelve years. In 1881 he was attacked with bronchitis from which he never recovered.

Mr. Clark is the author of the "Genealogy of the Brockman, Parks, Dean, Davis, and Goss Families," published about ten years ago. It was through the kindness of Mrs.

M. J. Stewart, the oldest daughter of Mr. Clark, that the author of this book was able to use his records of the Southern Branch of the Brockman family. These records were secured by Mr. Clark with the aid of Dr. Thomas M. Owen, of Montgomery, Ala., and published in book form. The author is indebted to Doctor Owen for his assistance in securing the right to use Doctor Clark's work, which was copyrighted, and is incorporated herein.

In politics, Mr. Clark was a Democrat. He received the degree of Royal Arch Mason in 1864; served as secretary 1864-66; served as King in 1869; received the order of High Priest in 1867; was a Knight Templar, and was created a Knight of the Illustrious Order of the Knights of the Red Cross in 1868; was introduced, created, and dubbed a Knight Templar and Knight of Malta, or order of Holy St. John of Jerusalem in 1868. Mr. Clark's wife, Mary Susan, a daughter of David Wright, a well-to-do farmer, was born in Newton Co., Ga., Dec. 6, 1828. They were married at the residence of her parents in Chambers County, Ala., Sept. 19, 1848, her uncle, Elder Benjamin Goss officiating. She was a young woman of attractive personality with a happy faculty for entertaining her friends. She made a frugal and industrial housekeeper and a proper helpmate to her husband. She was of a sympathetic nature, pitied the poor and afflicted, and was always ready to give to their aid and support. She lived a consistent member of the Baptist Church, which she joined in early life, and had an abiding faith in the promises of the Gospel. She died at the family residence in Houston Street, Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 12, 1893, and her remains were interred in the family burying ground in that city.

NEWTON LELAND BENNETT. Of the seven sons of Mark and Lucetta Brockman Bennett, the oldest survivor is Newton Leland. At seventeen he volunteered with Company B, 13th Regiment, S. C. V., and drilled with the company encamped at the Lightwoodknot Spring, near Columbia, S. C.; but was not mustered into service at that time. Acting under the advice of Capt. Brockman, he returned to his home, and spent the last five months of his school life in attendance at the Reidville Male High School, where he distinguished himself as a student in English. He went to Virginia in 1863, and shared the fate of his company thereafter until the surrender. "He was often almost miraculously preserved from injury, and never had to stay in a hospital or be left behind among stragglers, but was always to the front—bright, cheerful, full of repartee, encouraging his comrades to do their best." He attributes his preservation to the prayers of a devoted mother and of his godly uncle, Denny Bennett, the father of the lamented James W. Bennett.

Newton L. Bennett has been honored by being appointed Major on the staff of the State Confederate Veterans, Major General Carwile, commanding. He has served on the State Democratic Committee for twenty-two years.

December 24th, 1868, he was married to his cousin, Leonora Ann (born March 1st, 1849; died February 13th, 1904), the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Anderson Leonard. They had nine children:

Thomas Mark, born October 9th, 1869.

THOMAS MARK BENNETT married, March 21st, 1900, Charlotte T. (born January 21st, 1873), the daughter of Joseph and Martha ——— Duncan, of Charlotte, N. C. They have a son, Thomas Duncan, born April 14th, 1905.

EDNA EARLE BENNETT married, December 31st, 1890, Rudolph (born August 12th, 1866), the son of Thomas and Elizabeth Locke Walker, of Rocky Creek church, Greenville County, S. C. They have seven children:

Jesse Bennett, born November 3rd, 1892.
 Gladys Leonora, born September 5th, 1895.

 Tennie Elizabeth, born September 19th, 1899.

ELIZABETH LUCETTA BENNETT married, January 30th, 1892, Robert Alonzo Eison (born September 17th, 1857), a native of Union County, S. C. She died at the age of eighteen years, leaving a day-old infant daughter, Lillian Augusta, born October 29th, 1892.

NEWTON LEONARD BENNETT married, May 14th, 1907, his cousin, Olive Estelle (born February 3rd, 1880), the eldest daughter of Dr. Belton O'Neal and Lamira Leonard Bennett. They have two children, who, it is interesting to observe, through their father are descended from William Anderson in both the sixth and seventh generation, and are thus quadruply Anderson:

Lamira Leonard, born March 2nd, 1908.

Oliver Leonard, born November 1st, 1910.

Thomas Marion, born March 13th, 1914.

OBER J. BENNETT, married, February 22nd, 1905, his cousin, Carrie Lillian (born November 26th, 1882), the daughter of Sanford V. and Mattie Fowler Brockman. They have a son, James Earle, born June 14th, 1907.

WILLIAM THOMAS, the fourth son of Mark and Lucetta Brockman Bennett. He graduated from the Medical College of the State of South Carolina in 1876. He had for many years an extensive practice in Spartanburg and Greenville counties and built up quite a reputation as an accurate diagnostician and a skillful surgeon. He was devoted to his profession and never married. He died, November 9th, 1893, at the age of forty-six years, in the home of his sister, Mrs. J. D. Leonard, Reidville, S. C.

LOUISE ANN, the eldest daughter of Mark and Lucetta Brockman Bennett, married, December 19th, 1867, James Denny Leonard.

JAMES DENNY LEONARD, the third son of Thomas and Elizabeth Anderson Leonard, was born September 4th, 1842, at the old home near Sharon church. In the schools of the neighborhood and in the Reidville Male High School he secured a good practical education. In August, 1861, he entered the Confederate service under Col. Benjamin K. Brockman in Company B, Thirteenth Regiment, S. C. V., and was promoted to a lieutenancy in 1864. He was wounded at Chancellorsville and Second Manassas.

After the war he and his only living brother, David Oliver Leonard, entered the mercantile business together in Reidville, South Carolina, and were successful in this and in their farming interests. For six years he was supervisor of Spartanburg County, after having served two years as county commissioner. In the administration of these public trusts he showed the same energy, diligence and efficiency that marked the conduct of his private business.

He united with the Methodist church at Sharon, August, 1860, under the ministry of the Rev. E. A. Lemon, and afterwards served his church as steward, Sabbath school superintendent, secretary of quarterly conference, and trustee of church property, holding the last named office until his death. He took an active part in Masonry from his early manhood, and was always a conscientious Christian gentleman. In his home he was genial, gracious, hospitable; as a friend he was frank and loyal; as a citizen, staunch, progressive and rigidly honest.

A war comrade said of him after his passing, July 9th, 1903: "Reidville has lost a landmark; the State and county a good and useful man. You all loved him because he was a kind and affectionate father; we, his old friends and comrades, loved him for his many kind deeds, and for his real worth. Old Company B has lost her brightest light. Remember me as his old-time friend and comrade who loved him living and mourn him dead."

James Denny Leonard was married, December 19th, 1867, to Louise Ann (born April 28th, 1849), the daughter of Mark and Lucetta Brockman Bennett, a charming woman of fine feeling and unusual judgment and administrative functions. They have had eight children:

Ila Florence (Willson), born September 18th, 1868.

Elizabeth Lucetta (Todd), born January 7th, 1871.

Tallulah (Cudd), born January 7th, 1873.

Leonora (Briggs), born May 9th, 1875.

Oliver Wardlaw, born May 4th, 1877.

James Bennett, born June 13th, 1879; died December 21st, 1881.

Major Brockman, born April 23rd, 1881; died December 21st, 1881.

Roydon Ernest, born July 31st, 1884.

ILA FLORENCE, the oldest of the eight children of James Denny and Louise Bennett Leonard, was from early childhood the helpful, intelligent associate of her parents, filling in many ways the place of son to her father. This intimate and rather unusual relation helped to develop her in breadth of view and efficiency. In energy, strength and self-reliance she is not unlike her remarkable grandmother, Elizabeth Anderson Leonard. Many of her classmates in the old Reidville Female College recall that whenever a difficult problem in physics required immediate solution, she was invariably named by that prince among sensible teachers, the Rev. R. P. Smith, to solve it. With similar alertness and accuracy she has met the large number of problems that have crowded upon her as home-maker, business associate of her husband and public-spirited citizen.

November 27th, 1884, she was married to William Jesse (born July 22nd, 1860), the son of William and Evelina McJunkin Willson, of Union County, who, as a student in the Reidville Male High School, boarded in the home of James Denny Leonard, with whom he afterwards became associated in business. William Jesse Willson is a modest person of sterling character, sound judgment, a keen sense of justice and a chivalrous devotion to duty. He is an elder in the Presbyterian church, and is one of those rare beings that can stand the exacting test of close acquaintance. William Jesse and Ila Leonard Willson have reared two sons:

James Wirron, born February 7th, 1887.
Jesse O'Neal, born March 5th, 1889.

JAMES WIRRON WILLSON, prepared for college by his mother and his uncle, George Briggs, then principal of the Reidville Male High School, entered the South Carolina College in his fifteenth year. Here he remained for some terms. Later, winning a scholarship to the College of Charleston, he entered that institution, where, besides taking great interest in athletics, he was graduated A. B. and A. M., cum laude, in 1908, having specialized in Latin and biology. Directly afterwards he was given a clerkship in the Dollar Savings Bank, Spartanburg, South Carolina. He is now the cashier of this popular institution. April 6th, 1910, he was married to Rosabel Edith (born June 3rd, 1891), the daughter of Charles Calhoun and Rosa Smith-Fleming Pedrick, of Gainesville, Florida, educated at Converse College, a congenial companion. James Wirron and Rosabel Pedrick Willson have had a son of the eighth generation, James Wirron, Jr., born January 8th, 1911; died August 28th, 1913.

JESSE O'NEAL WILLSON was prepared for college in Reidville. He was a student at Wofford College in 1904-1905, and of Charleston College 1906-1908. The fall of 1908 he entered the Medical College of the State of South Carolina, where he was graduated June 3rd, 1912. He has located in his home town, and is making a brilliant success in his profession, to which he is devoting every power of his strong, earnest, gentle nature. As a descendant of William Anderson in both the sixth and the seventh generations he has probably inherited a double portion of the fondness for, and the skill in, the practice of medicine which seem to have marked a goodly number of those of this ancestry.

ELIZABETH LUCETTA, the second daughter of James Denny and Elizabeth Bennett Leonard, a practical and resourceful woman, educated at Reidville and Williamston, married, when but a child, John Arthur (born August 12th, 1863), the son of John and Clara McKinney Todd. He has been highly successful in business at Simpsonville, South Carolina. No small part of this success is due to his wife, who passed away at the age of thirty-three years, November 11th, 1908. John Arthur and Elizabeth Leonard Todd were the parents of ten children:

Frank Clyde, born October 9th, 1886.

Daisy Zobelia (Wilson), born December 9th, 1888.

Clara Louise (Abercrombie), born December 8th, 1891.

Vivienne Leonora, born December 14th, 1893; a student at Winthrop College.

Jamie (Bozeman), born November 5th, 1895.

Arthur, born July 6th, 1897; died July 9th, 1897.

Geraldine Desseau, born January 4th, 1902.

John Homer, born February 3rd, 1904.

An infant, born September 30th, 1906; died October 6th, 1906.

FRANK CLYDE TODD, a forceful and clever young man, is successfully conducting a brick plant and sawmill business in Simpsonville, S. C. September 13th, 1908, he was married to Annie (born August 11th, 1883), the daughter of S. T. and Ida White Moore.

DAISY ZOBELIA TODD, an attractive brunette with decided literary tastes, married, September 9th, 1905, Hugh G. (born December 1st, 1881), the son of Sidney J. and Julia Alverson Wilson. He holds a responsible position in the C. & W. C. railway service at Greenville, South Carolina. They have a daughter, Dorothy, born June 20th, 1906.

CLARA LOUISE TODD married, June 5th, 1912, Walter Guy (born August 3rd, 1884), the son of Alexander and Mary Madden Abercrombie. After her mother's death the responsibility of the home fell upon her young shoulders. This she met with tact, sympathy and diligence.

JAMIE TODD, a petite brunette of energy and vivacity, married, April 6th, 1912, Wade Hampton (born January 11th, 1892), the son of Wade and Anna Hunt Bozeman.

TALLULAH, the third daughter of James Denny and Louise Bennett Leonard, was educated at Reidville and the Columbia, S. C., College. She is a woman of fine poise and executive ability, and in addition to being a model wife and mother has been helpfully identified with a number of philanthropic and humanitarian activities.

CAPT. DAVID ANDERSON (52) was born January 1st, 1811. He was the oldest son of James Mason and Mary Miller Anderson, the grandson of Maj. David Anderson, of Revolutionary fame, and great grandson of William Anderson, the original settler on Tyger River.

On March 28th, 1839, he was married by Rev. John G. Landrum to Harriet Maria Brockman, eldest child of Col. Thomas Patterson and Mary Kilgore Brockman, at Pliny, Greenville County, S. C. She was born February 28th, 1819. To her were born nine children, seven of whom married and left the old home, except the youngest living son, Thomas Brockman, who ministered as only a faithful and devoted son could to the comfort and happiness of his aged parents in their declining years.

On March 28th, 1889, they celebrated their "golden wedding," living three years after. As the result of a fall, he suffered from a dislocated hip, but recovered sufficiently to use a rolling chair. She, likewise, used a chair, having symptoms of paralysis. Each was unaware of the other's final illness. Mrs. Anderson died Friday afternoon, July 1st, 1892; Capt. Anderson followed twenty-three hours after on July 2nd. It is unusual to see a couple who have walked together in wedded life for more than fifty years, lie down and take their last sleep together. On Sunday, July 3rd, 1892, they were buried at Nazareth, under the same service and in the same grave, in the presence of a large congregation. Their pastor, Rev. R. H. Reid, assisted by Rev. W. L. Boggs, conducted the funeral services.

Children of Capt. David Anderson and Harriet (Brockman) Anderson:

Nancy Cunningham Anderson.

18, 1842; married Emma Buist, daughter of Rev. Edw. T. Buist, of Greenville, S. C., February 27, 1866; died February 23, 1892, aged 50 years.

“On February 27, 1866, he married Miss Emma Buist, daughter of Rev. E. T. Buist, D. D., of Greenville, S. C. The result of this union was nine children, seven of whom survived him, viz.: two sons and five daughters, the youngest being eight years of age.”

EMMA BUIST ANDERSON, wife of Jno. Crawford Anderson, was born near Greenville, S. C., on September 14th, 1843.

She is the eldest daughter of Rev. E. T. Buist, D. D., and his second wife, Emma Raymond Hornby. Her younger days were spent on the farm at “Somer’s Hill,” her birthplace. Her education being in the hands of her father almost entirely, until at the age of twelve, she was sent to school in Charleston, staying at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Mary Buist Lamb. Some time prior to the Civil War, she moved with her father to Laurens, S. C. She took charge of the college there, and his children were put at school. Upon the outbreak of the war, the college was closed, but not before the graduation of the subject of our sketch. Upon returning to Greenville her father became pastor of the small Presbyterian church there, and she was his right hand, with her musical talent. On February 27th, 1866, just after the close of the war, she was united in marriage to John Crawford Anderson, and immediately came to the country to live.

There were nine children born to them, three sons and six daughters.

At her husband’s death she remained for a time, with three small children, at the home at Moore. Later, wishing to put them at school, she moved to Edgefield with her oldest daughter, where she has more or less remained ever since.

The children are as follows:

EMMA HARRIET (PET), born December 14th, 1866, was married on the 4th of December, 1888, to William Lowndes

He is the sole survivor of the Barry name in this section, he being the great-grandson of Capt. Andrew Barry, of Revolutionary fame, and his wife "Kate Barry, the heroine of Cowpens." Of this union one child was born, John Charles Barry, August 28th, 1892. At his mother's death he was taken by his grandmother and returned to his father's house when about twelve years of age. Here she boarded with the family and came under the sweet influence of his most estimable wife, as well as making many lifelong friends. As the oldest daughter in the home and living during the unsettled years of the war, she learned the practical things of life, which have been invaluable in later years. On February 27th, 1866, she was married by Rev. R. H. Reid to Thomas John Moore, and come to preside over the home at "Fredonia," which had been closed during the war, save for the servants and the faithful overseer.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary Hannah Brockman

Sept. 20th, 1924

Taken from Denver (Colo.), Press

Mrs. Mary Hannah Brockman was born in Green County, Virginia, on June 13th, 1859, the fourth child of William B. and Rachel Ann Estes.

At the age of nineteen years she married William J. Brockman, and they made their home on a farm in Louisa County, Virginia, where eight children were born to them.

About twenty years ago Mrs. Brockman was taken ill with stomach trouble and bronchial asthma and Mr. Brockman sold the farm and moved to the Allegheny Mountains of West Virginia. But Mrs. Brockman's health became steadily worse and the family located in Washington, D. C., where she improved in health and made her home for about fifteen years.

In 1919 Mrs. Brockman had influenza and the asthmatic condition was so greatly aggravated that it was necessary to go to a warm, dry climate. She spent four months in Phoenix, Arizona, with her youngest daughter and the family then moved to Denver, Colorado, in May, 1921.

Mrs. Brockman was fairly well for about two years, when she had a nervous breakdown, a recurrence of bronchial asthma and heart trouble. It was during this time that her fourth son, Eugene Cecil of Denver, Colorado, passed away after a severe illness of three months, preceded by six years of tubercular trouble. She was greatly grieved over Cecil's death and it is thought that her grief was partly responsible for the nervous breakdown. Mrs. Brockman was in bed at her home from January 2nd, of this year until May 26th, when her condition became so serious that she was taken to the Battle Creek Sanitarium at Boulder, where she passed away about four o'clock Saturday morning, September the 20th.

Mrs. Brockman is survived by her husband, William J. Brockman, and a daughter, Mrs. E. R. Hall of Denver; four sons Clarence Aubrey Brockman of Charleston, W. Va., Roy E. Brockman of Asco, W. Va., William Everett Brockman of St. Paul, Minnesota and John B. Brockman of Philadelphia, Pa., and two daughters in Auburndale, Massachusetts—Mrs. Daisy B. Elwood and Mrs. Walter F. Burt.

Mrs. Brockman joined the Baptist Church in early life and later became a member of the Christian Church. She was a devoted mother, sacrificing even her health for her children, and a true Christian woman, instilling the teachings of Christ and the love of God in the hearts of her children from early childhood. She died trusting God and during her last days she would often say, "Jesus is coming down from those clouds through that window and take me home." The Lord mercifully took her quietly in her sleep, without a struggle, and today we know she is in the presence of the Lord Jesus Christ.

"Her suffering ended with the day;
Yet lived she at its close.
And breathed the long, long night away,
In statue-like repose.

But when the sun in all his state
Illumed the eastern skies,
She passed through glory's mourning-gate,
And walked in Paradise!"

Her struggle for breath is over; her torture-racked body free from pain; she is now smiling and saying to us as she said so often during her last days, "Do not grieve for me, dear, or I could not die happy."

Her last message to her husband and children was that she loved them all—that she was trusting God, and would be waiting for them on the other side.—Mary Ethel Hall.

COLONEL JOHN MILLS DEAN (66) was born in Spartanburg, S. C., in 1835. He was a graduate of the S. C. Military Academy, and chose Civil Engineering as his profession. Before the opening of the Civil War, several years of his life were spent as a planter. At the first call for arms, he raised a company and went to Little Rock, Ark., where he was commissioned Lt. Col. of the 7th Regiment Infantry. Landrum's History says: "From six in the morning until late in the afternoon, (the battle of Shiloh) Colonel Dean's command was in the thickest of the fight. Leading an assault across the road, he fell about 5 P. M., shot in the back by a sharp-shooter. He died instantly. One of his comrades wrote, "The men faltered a little as they reached the road, so the Colonel ran in front, cheering them on, waving his sword, and as he gave the command, 'Fire!', fell with his face to the foe. General Harding, in speaking to the mother of Colonel Dean, said: 'Madam, your son was a brave man.'" Colonel Dean died in the 27th year of his age.

EDWARD JEFFERSON DEAN (66) was born in Spartanburg, S. C., in 1842, and was twice married. Dr. J. B. O. Landrum's History says: "Captain Edward Jefferson Dean, second son of Major H. J. Dean, was born in Spartanburg, S. C., January, 1842. He was attending St. James College in Maryland, when the first call for volunteers was made. He returned home at once, and joined one of the first companies that was raised, C. K., (Spartanburg Rifles), 15th Regiment, S. C. Volunteers, which was immediately sent into service. He rose from private to captain, and was in the trenches around Petersburg at the time of the fearful mine explosion in 1864. Some of the Company were dug out and made prisoners by the enemy. Captain Dean was imprisoned early in the war at Fort Delaware. Here, for eleven months, he was confined to miserable quarters, exposed to the blazing sun in summer, and bitter cold in winter. When released, after the surrender of General Lee, Captain Dean's health was a complete wreck. He settled on a plantation in Calhoun County, Ala., hoping to regain his health and strength, but after several years of suffering, laid down his life, sacrificed for his country. He died in 1883 and is buried at Talledaga, Ala."

Captain Dean was twice married. His first wife was a Miss Smith, and his second was Evie Russell. They had one child by the first marriage, Ida Dean.

MARY JUDSON CLARK (118) was born in Chambers Co., Ala., March 1, 1851. She received her education at Pinelevel, Ala., and Orion, Ala., and then entered the Judson Female Institute in Marion, Ala., where she completed the regular course in 1869, and a post-graduate course in 1870. She was united in marriage, at the residence of her parents, in the City of Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1871, to Arthur Sidney Stewart, of Crenshaw Co., Ala.

He received his preparatory education as a boy at Montgomery and Central Institutes, Montgomery, Ala., and then entered Washington and Lee University, in Virginia, while it was under the presidency of Gen. Robert E. Lee. At the time of his marriage, he was engaged in farming in Crenshaw County. He remained there but a short time, and then moved to Montgomery, and engaged in the lumber trade, which he followed until the time of his death, Sept. 19, 1893. He was an exemplary Christian, of Baptist faith. He was an intelligent and esteemed citizen, commanding the respect and confidence of all who knew him. In politics he was a Democrat, but never an aspirant to office. He was a member of three benevolent orders: United Workmen, Knights of Honor, and Free and Accepted Masons. His remains were interred in the family lot in Oakwood cemetery, in the City of Montgomery, under the auspices of the latter two orders.

His wife was an affectionate and congenial companion, and a true and faithful helpmate to him, was ever solicitous of his welfare and happiness, and sympathetic and patient in her devotion to him, nursing him in sickness, of which he had more than his share. She resides at 222 Columbus Street, Montgomery, Ala., where she has a good home, and where her children were reared to full age, well-educated, and for the most part, have made their home with her.

Greer, S. C., Oct. 7, 1915.
P. O. Box 178.

MR. W. EVERETT BROCKMAN,
Washington, D. C.

My Dear Mr. Brockman: Some time past we received a letter from you written to my father, Thaddeus Westmoreland. As papa has been dead for six years, I take it upon myself to answer. I am sending what Brockman history that we have, which was copied from father's papers, and sincerely trust it will assist you in this work. Mother said that several years ago papa sent records somewhere concerning the Brockman family, but she does not remember where. We feel sure that we can find something else worth while. If there is any way we can help you, will be glad to do so.

Your very truly,
(MISS) MAIDA WESTMORELAND.

The records furnished by Miss Maida Westmoreland are as follows:

John Brockman married Amelia Martin (lived in Virginia and were wealthy). When John died, he left property to one child unborn, who was afterwards our forefather, Major Brockman, who married a Miss Patterson, of North Carolina. (This is a mistake. John, father of this Major was a son of John and Mary Brockman, whose son was born after his father's death.—Author.) Their son, James, married first in North Carolina, his wife dying, leaving two children. He came over on the Enoree to visit some kin and married his cousin, Lucy Brockman. She was the daughter of Henry, better known as Harry Brockman, who married Susannah Patterson, and came to South Carolina, where his sister, Mary Brockman, who had married Joel Dean, had already moved. He got lands higher up on the Enoree, and each of them reared their families here. They were very cultured people. Susannah Patterson had a brother named Turner, who was Washington's aide-de-camp. James Brockman was considered one of the best christians of his day, and Grandmother Lucy was gentle and refined. James Brockman was a very just man. He made his two sons, William and Frank, and his three sons-in-law, Simeon Westmoreland, John Holland and Mark Bennett, executors of his Will, so that all would be bound to share alike. There seems to have been a contest by the first wife's children, who had moved to Georgia, but it availed nothing as all of the property in this state came by Grandmother Lucy from her father, Harry.

Children of James Brockman and Lucy Brockman were:

Nancy Brockman, m. John Holland; William Brockman, married Elizabeth Bennett, a sister of Mark Bennett. Elizabeth Brockman was born Sept. 29, 1814, and married Simeon Ransom Westmoreland, who was born Jan. 4, 1817. They were married Jan. 22, 1835. Grandfather died Oct. 14, 1876, and grandmother Nov. 7, 1880.

Frank Brockman married Mary Greer. Aunt Mary is still living. Lucitta Brockman married Mark Bennett.

Children of Simeon Ransom Westmoreland and Elizabeth Brockman Westmoreland: James Brockman Westmoreland, born Oct. 16, 1835, was twice married, first to Edith Fowler, and had two children. She died, then he married Fannie Cathcart. They moved to Arkansas in the year 1880. He died in 1897 at his residence near Cool Hill, Ark., in the 62nd year of his age. He left a widow and nine children.

John Latimer Westmoreland, born Oct. 17, 1837, married Buena Vista Drummond, and moved to Texas soon after the war. He died shortly afterwards. His wife and three children are also dead.

Thaddeus T. Westmoreland was born Nov. 2, 1840, and married Elizabeth Cannon, Jan. 23, 1879. He moved to Greer and lived until March 11, 1909. The family lives at Greer.

Henry Varius Westmoreland was born April 15, 1843, and married Emma Cunningham. He was a physician at Greer until his death, June 3, 1909.

Jezabel Westmoreland, born Jan. 31, 1846, and married R. P. Adair. Residence, Clinton, S. C.

Seletha Zimena Westmoreland was born April 20, 1848, and married William Parks. Both are dead. Family lives at Fountain Inn, S. C. Benjamin Perry Westmoreland was born Sept. 15, 1854, died April 6, 1904.

Thaddeus T. Westmoreland, third son of Simeon Ransom Westmoreland and Elizabeth Brockman Westmoreland, was born Nov. 2, 1840, and reared in the eastern part of Greenville, near Enoree River, at the Westmoreland Mills. He attended the country schools there at an early age, and later at Reidville, in Spartanburg County. He left school and volunteered in the Confederate States Army, in Capt. A. H. Dean's Company, with four companions, which formed Easley's Battalion. He served on the coast of South Carolina until the first battle of Manassas. He was then transferred to Virginia, with the battalion and Hampton Legion. Organized the 2nd regiment of South Carolina cavalry with M. C. Butler as Colonel. Served in Virginia until the spring of 1864, at which time was transferred back to South Carolina, and served on coast of North Carolina and South Carolina until the surrender. He was at the fall of Fort Fisher. After his transfer to South Carolina, he was detailed as a scout, and had many narrow escapes from being captured. Mr. Westmoreland's brother Varius, was in the same company, also their Uncle Frank Brockman, and their cousin, John Brockman. Two brothers, James and John Westmoreland, were in another company together.

Thaddeus Westmoreland was in ill health after the war. He returned home and found that the Yankees had torn up everything, but he went to work to care for his parents. He remained at the old home place until he married Miss Cannon in 1879, and then moved to Greer. He joined the Masons in 1863, at Reidville, and was master of Reidville lodge for eight years in succession. After moving to Greer he served as Master for several years, and held various offices in the lodge. He was elected Master again in 1902, and was Master when he died. He served as Trial Justice from 1882 to 1896, when he resigned the office and was elected, same fall, as a member of the legislature from Greenville County. Since that time he farmed until 1902, when he was elected Magistrate. He became a member of Clear Springs Church in 1877, and was a charter member of the First Baptist Church in Greer, and later, clerk for several years. He occupied various positions as councilman. He was the first man ever elected to weigh cotton at Greer. He acted as Deputy Sheriff in Greenville County, and sub-county commissioner. He practised law for many years, was a public-spirited man and helped to build up his town. He died March 11, 1909, after suffering over a year with paralysis. He left a widow and two children: Edna Talulah, m. John Walker, and has one child, Wm. Thaddeus Walker; his second daughter is Maida Mathursia Westmoreland, the author of the biographical sketches on her family line.

BROCKMANS OF WEST VIRGINIA, COLORADO, MINNESOTA, NEW YORK AND WAY STATIONS

In the hurly burly days of time and events, quite frequently the daily newspapers, the Blue Book and Historical societies overlook some of the truly great men, who go about day by day giving of themselves simply for the joy of having performed a service to God and to Mankind.

It has been said that some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them. I am going to talk to you about this second class—namely those who achieve greatness adding the phrase “without the blare of trumpets or a press agent.”

For local atmosphere permit me to take you back into the cradle of America where our early heroes were born—that part of Virginia known as the Piedmont Section, and in the Shenandoah Valley where the present generations are prone to boast of their blue blood—the combined red corpuscles of English, Scotch with an admixture of Irish good humor and thrift producing modern aristocracy—in this cradle where early settlers who built in this new territory, the structure which now upholds modern civilization in America.

Just across the Blue Ridge Mountains and into the Alleghenies one ventures into an entirely different atmosphere. According to modern fiction writers, most of the natives are moonshiners, but in fact they are a race of hardy and thrifty people, who until the coming of the coal digger, were separated from modern civilization by high natural boundaries, inadequate schools, no churches and but meager organizations for the maintenance of law and order.

It was in these surroundings that the Allen Clan grew in a perfectly natural manner and became one of the powerful influences throughout Western Virginia and the Eastern portions of West Virginia.

Similar surroundings also stimulated the growth of the Hatfield and other Clans. With the coming of coal operators, men and women from every nation on the globe were thrown together, worked long hours in the bowels of the earth and lived in small, dirty and poorly equipped homes, entirely void of luxury and scarcely boasting of the necessities of life. Without the influences of religion or schools, it was natural that vice and lawlessness should thrive to whatever extent the mining companies would permit.

It was in these surroundings that C. A. Brockman and his brother Roy entered when in their early teens, both starting at the bottom around the coal mines, and it is possible that this modest beginning has been responsible for their successful work among the miners.

When I first went into coal fields Aubrey and Roy were living in the vicinity of Nuttall, West Virginia. At this point a church had been constructed, but being outside of the regular circuits, a minister was available but very seldom. It was here that Aubrey was instrumental in organizing a Sunday School, later becoming Superintendent, and it was here that he and Roy held Sunday night services and Thursday prayer meetings.

The good which they accomplished here possibly gave them the inspiration which for many years now has carried them forward in the ministerial work among the miners.

For nearly twenty years these two men have worked in the fields and have seen conditions undergo remarkable changes. In moving from place to place and gradually forging ahead, both have become successful business men, leaders in ministerial work, and widely known and appreciated throughout the West Virginia coal fields.

It is very probable that these men have done more pioneer missionary work than some of the early leaders such as Calvin, Wesley, Luther and others. While the latter are noted for what is termed reforms, much of their popularity is doubtless due to the radical change made by their code of reforms, the popularity of religious reforms in Europe and England during these times, and the fact that their ideas gave birth to new denominations. Then too dissatisfaction on account of the confusion between the church and the State made reforms most desirable and helped them grow to great proportions.

Pardon me for a moment if I digress. I am not so sure that so many denominations are desirous. Could we not have reforms without separation into units, which have never come to an agreement upon very simple elementary matters such as dancing or card playing; such as close or open communion, and other details which give us the Northern and Southern Methodists, the Baptists, the two Episcopal churches and many others. The other day a Tolerance Club was organized in Minneapolis headed by a Rabbi, several protestants, a Roman Catholic Priest and leaders in our City Life. This is I think the most practical step ever taken toward the settlement of religious intolerance. But I am not presumed to be writing a treatise upon religion, the point I started out to prove is that Aubrey and Roy in their modest ways, giving daily of their time and money, in my opinion, have done more for the benefit of mankind, for the glory of God, for the bodily comfort of suffering humanity than most of the religious leaders that history has made famous.

Asco, West Virginia, is situated high up in the mountains of West Virginia. It is reached by a side track used for hauling coal to the main line of the Norfolk and Western at Davy. It is a new camp, yet well built and with a school policy that is an example for Cities to follow. Everybody there works for the Mining Company, no civil officer or association or other organized effort is actually responsible for the civic welfare of the community, or for many other things that make a town desirable.

R. E. Brockman supervised the building of this town. He planned the school, he teaches the Sunday School, he preaches every Sunday and Thursday nights. He ministers to the sick. He and his wife together make themselves entirely responsible for the welfare of the Community. When there is sickness two men are sent for, the Company Doctor and R. E. Brockman. When the influenza epidemic hit the town, Roy sat up all night and with prayer, and careful nursing brought back life into the body of many men and women who had given up any hope for recovery. It is my personal belief that he and his missionary wife are among the greatest healers that have been known of since the day of Paul and his associate Apostles.

Last year I visited this Camp and again this year I visited this family now with two wonderful children, and came back full of enthusiasm, bursting with emotion, and fired with love and devotion to those who give of themselves in so unselfish a manner.

The older brother Aubrey, now living in a totally different atmosphere is working equally as hard but among a different type of people. At Charleston, West Virginia, C. A. Brockman, the head of a large Sunday School, works six days a week doing good-missionary work, community chest, public welfare and other necessary things that must fall to the lot of someone in every City.

This sketch is written by a younger brother devoted to the older ones who have been to him an ever increasing inspiration to forge ahead, to do things. Please accept this, not in a boasting way, but I think that future generations should know what manner of men lived in our generation and to what extent they gave of themselves simply for the joy of giving—WEB.

WILLIAM EVERETT BROCKMAN (143), was born in Louisa County, Va., May 18, 1891. He attended the public and private schools of Virginia, and later high school and college. In 1906 he removed to West Virginia where he remained one year, and then moved to Washington, D. C. After a few years there, he returned to the mountains, where he learned something of the rough side of life. After remaining in the New River fields for several years and having received some of the necessary training of life from his older brothers, he returned to Washington, D. C., and took up life anew.

Mr. Brockman was a student at George Washington University for four years up to the outbreak of the World War. He enlisted as a private in Washington, D. C., and was sent to Kelly Field, Texas, then to Love Field, Dallas. He held all non-com ranks to Master Electrician Air Service and was commissioned just at the close of the war. He volunteered for special duty overseas and sailed on the U. S. S. Lenape in 1918. He returned on the U. S. S. Frederick, a battle cruiser in 1919.

On June 8, 1918, he married Marguerite Alice Terrett, of Saint Paul, Minn. Mr. Brockman is connected with The Minnesota Loan and Trust Company of Minneapolis. He is a member of the Saint Paul Athletic Club, the Minneapolis Automobile Club, the Midland Hills Country Club, Sigma Nu Fraternity, and other social and fraternal organizations. He is also a 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason, and a shriner.

His wife, Marguerite Terrett Brockman, is an accomplished musician, a lover of outdoor sports, and excels the average good athlete in skating, swimming, diving. She is also interested in the study of art and has exhibited at the Minnesota State Fair. Mrs. Brockman is the daughter of George Hunter Terrett, of St. Paul, a native of Fairfax county, Virginia. Mr. Terrett came to Minnesota just after the Civil War and took up a land claim in North Dakota. Subsequently he returned to St. Paul and engaged in the restaurant business, operating several cafes and restaurants in Minneapolis and St. Paul. His wife was Alice Gillespie, a lovable woman who was known in St. Paul for her charitable work among all classes. Mr. Terrett was the son of George Hunter Terrett, a Commandant of the United States Marine Corps, which position he held at the outbreak of the Civil War. He resigned from the U. S. Army to accept a Colonelcy in the Confederate State Army. Colonel Terrett was the son of Captain George Hunter Terrett, who was born in 1778, died 1843 (son of William Henry, son of William Henry) married in 1801 Hannah Butler born 1785, died 1860 (daughter of Burditt Ashton, son of Charles, son of Charles, son of John, son of Charles); and by her had 1, William Henry; 2, Mary Ashton; 3, George Hunter; 4, Amelia Hunter; 5, Burditt Ashton; 6, Nathaniel Hunter; 7, John Chapman Hunter; 8, Washington; 9, James Wallace; 10, Frederic Augustus Chapman; 11, Alexander Hunter; 12, Gibson Andrews.

The residence of Capt. George Hunter Terrett was Oakland, his ancestral homestead, lying four miles west of Alexandria, Va., and half a mile southwesterly from where the Episcopal Theological Seminary now stands, in Fairfax county, Virginia. Here he was born; here his children were born; here he and his wife died and lie buried. Here too part of his children lie; all are asleep; but some lie far apart.

In the war of 1812 he commanded a company of Fairfax militia at the battle of Bladensburg, where our undisciplined troops were routed by British regulars. He was a man of force and strength of character, of rectitude and honor, a hospitable host, a good liver, a genial companion, an old Virginia gentleman. Andrew Jackson, Cabinet officers, and men of affairs of the period were guests at his home, and here too were entertained many young soldiers famous afterward in the armies of the North and the South.

The grandchildren now are found in Fairfax county, Virginia; Washington, D. C.; Maryland, Mississippi, North Dakota and Minnesota. Oakland is still in possession of one of the family. The hospitable old mansion, in time of the war, was rifled and burned to the ground. Every building and every fence was burned. Every forest tree, every fruit tree, and even the oaks of the lawn and family graveyard were cut for fuel for the army encamped near by.

Letters from Mrs. Simpson

MR. W. E. BROCKMAN,
 Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Brockman: Enclosed find John Brockman's Will, which I will ask that you return to me when you have finished with it. I have some other data which I will be glad to send you upon your request. They are chiefly records found by Mr. Fletcher Brockman and I, when we worked so hard on this line ten years ago.

The first Brockman that we know of was Henry Brockman who came to Maryland about 1674. I have a copy of land grant proving that. We then skip to John Brockman, who must have been born about 1720 (he died 1755). We need that link filled. My ancestor was John Brockman, who married Amelia Martin. He must have been born about 1720 or 1725, and was, we feel sure, the son of John Brockman whose Will I enclose. John Brockman's and Amelia Martin's daughter, Mary, who was born Jan. 7, 1759, married Joel Dean Sept. 5, 1775. Their son, John Dean, born Sept. 26, 1776, married Mary (or pretty Polly) Farrow. Their son, Hosea Jefferson Dean, was my grandfather. I have full records of the family, much more complete than Mr. Owen's book. Mary Brockman Dean always claimed to be the daughter of a Revolutionary soldier, but was never able to find any record of John Brockman's services. He probably served in North Carolina. However, Gen. Green lost his rolls twice in retreat, so they are very incomplete.

The name Brockman is so unusual that I feel sure that all the Brockmans in this country are descended from Henry Brockman, who landed in Maryland. The "Chalkley Manuscripts," which have recently been published and which give so many Virginia names, contain no Brockman. Before the book is published I would like to fill out my grandfather's line more completely than the "Brockman and Kindred Families" have it. I will get the matter in shape and send it to you. If I can help you in any way, I will be glad to do so. Do you find any Martin records? Amelia's family is unknown to us.

Very truly yours,

(Signed.) MABEL F. SIMPSON.

MRS. J. W. SIMPSON.

Spartanburg, S. C.

Sept. 23, 1915.

Dear Mr. Brockman: I have sent your letter to a descendant of the Brockmans, to ask her help in replying. In the meantime, let me know if you think this inference is correct. Our John Brockman came to South Carolina before 1790. His children (the five of whom we have record) were all born in Virginia. The eldest of those five, Mary Brockman Dean, was married, and had been married for years when they came. In Mr. Clark's book, you will find that he infers that John Brockman was born 1735—40, because Mary, supposed to be the first child, was born in 1759. Now it is very probable that Mary was not the oldest child, and that the oldest was born many years before that time. * * *

My mother always told us that John Brockman fought in the Revolution, and that Joel Dean, his son-in-law, followed him. Most of the Virginia Deans were Royalists, and Joel is the only one of his name who seems to have fought. * * * I have incurred no expense in sending you this data, and have been glad to furnish it. I am sending you a copy of Joel Dean's obituary notice which I hope you can put in the book. It will establish proof of his Revolutionary services.

Hoping great success for you, I am,
Very truly yours,

MABEL F. SIMPSON.

Obituary

DIED in Spartanburg District, S. C., recently, Joel Dean, Sr., in his 87th year. He did some service in the Revolutionary War, and was often heard to remark that he had received more from the blessings of freedom than all he had done, or could do, was worth, and therefore did not desire a pension. Through industry and economy he raised a large and respectable family, who are all following the good example set by him and are doing well. He was reported to be among the best marksmen and the most skillful hunter, and retained his eyesight to the last. He lived to see his family extend to several generations, and saw what few will or have seen, his granddaughter's grandchild.—From the "Courier," Charleston, S. C., March 15, 1842.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Simpson are as follows: Mabel, b. 1896; William; and Dunlap.

SUPPLEMENT TO VOLUME 1, HUME FAMILY

By W. E. Brockman, Compiler.

When I undertook to publish a revised history of the Hume and Allied families, I determined to put forth every possible effort to make it accurate. The work of collecting revised data took about two years and another was required for setting type and sending out proofs. These proofs were read by Dr. John R. Hume, Doniphan, Missouri; Mrs. Chas. H. Wine, Culpeper, Virginia; Mrs. Thos. W. Cooke, Washington, D. C.; and Dr. Edgar Erskine Hume, of Washington, D. C. With this splendid co-operation I felt satisfied that the revised book would represent an accurate history and naturally I am disappointed when my attention is invited to errors, most of which however are of minor importance.

There is one however that deserves mention here, since it deals with a branch of the Hume family which has long puzzled me. I refer to the line of William Hume, as given by Mrs. Ida (March) Douglas. Dr. John R. Hume says in a letter of September 4, 1926, that the line of Mrs. Douglas belongs to the Scotch Irish branch and I am very happy to quote sections of his letter here.

Mr. Wm. E. Brockman, Doniphan, Missouri, Sept. 4, 1926.
Minneapolis, Minn.

My Dear Sir:

I have in my possession some 17 lines whose emigration began in some cases as early as 1678 and settled in Massachusetts. The branch to which Mrs. March Douglass is attached is one of Bishop Leslie's somewhat famous Scotch-Irish refugees from Fermanagh, where the old ruined castle stands of which I can furnish a photograph, in County Antrim North Ireland. It is in the beautiful lake region of the North of Ireland, I have stood on its ruined towers and gazed over the waters and seen as many as seven or eight small islands in view on a clear day.

Hanna gives in his book at page 227-8, Vol. 1 a list of these Lowland Clans so called who refugeed from Ireland under William and Mary and settled, most of them in the Counties of Lancaster and Northumberland on the South East corner of Pennsylvania, and a few in the adjoining corner of Maryland where they were welcomed for a little while by the Quaker Owners. When they began to observe their own forms of worship according to the Scotch Presbyterian Custom (they had brought their preachers from Ireland), the Quakers who believed in and practiced free religious liberty for Quakers only, began to make it unpleasant for them and they began to seek homes in other places. Thus after they had been in Pennsylvania for some 50 years, some of them went to the Valley of the Virginia as they called the Shenandoah in the vicinity of the present city of Roanoke, and settled there but the coming on of the French and Indian War and the somewhat noted "Battle of the Cow Pastures" wherein the Indians killed several of the settlers, prompted them to move on further south to the now famous piedmont region in Rowan and Mecklenburg, N. C. There they were practically sole owners, and established a colony that is to this day practically all Scotch-Irish Presbyterian. The Famous Battle of the Alamance in Orange County, North Carolina in 1771 was a Scotch-Irish battle and was actually the first bloodshed in the Revolution five years before the outbreak at Lexington, Mass. The justly celebrated Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence May 20, 1775, the first Declaration in America, was also Scotch-Irish. Many of these expatriated Scotch-Irishmen now again expatriated; and emigrated further west in Pennsylvania and settled in and around Harrisburg where they lived and prospered and from there they went with the tide of empire further westward and settled some in Ohio some in Indiana and some in Illinois and Missouri. One Hume was in St. Louis County in 1802 and wrote a letter now in my hands back to his eastern friends inviting them to come to the Missouri and eat Oysters with him. It is to one of these families that Mrs. March Douglass belongs. Her ancestor was one Robert Hume who came to Pennsylvania when Wedderburn George was only 4 years old, and ten years before the Jacobite Rebellion for which he was exiled. Robert was from Scotland via Ireland, that is he was Scotch-Irish so called. Hanna as cited above has a list of these thirty-nine lowland clans of Scotch who went to Ireland under James the first and then to America under William and Mary. They are as follows:

Armstrongs, Barclays, Brodies, Bruces, Comyns, Cunninghams, Colquhans, Cranstons, Crawfords, Douglass, Drummonds, Dunbars, Dundas (both these clans originated with the Humes from the Cospatricks), Erskines, Forbes, Gordons, Grahames, Hays, Hamiltons, HUMES, Johnstones, Kerrs, Lauders, Leslies, Lindsays, Lockharts, Maxwells, Montgomeries, Murrays, Oglevies, Oliphants, Ramsays, Ruthvens, Scotts, Setons, Sinclairs or St. Claires, Urquharts, Wallaces, Wemysses.

The 20th of these famous folk was ROBERT HUME, Ancestor of William who married Anne (Blank) in Pennsylvania (not in Virginia, he never lived in Virginia) and was the Ancestor of her line. Famous folk, they were, and well worthy of a better fate than to be tacked on to the tail of an already occupied car filled to overflowing. I very much regret that this has been done. My mother's tribe is Scotch-Irish and French crossed and were part of the famous people whom Bishop Leslie has mentioned in Hannah's book cited above. My mother's family, the Davidsons are not noted above although they were Pennsylvania Scotch-Irish but they were HIGHLANDERS from Perthshire, MacDhai is the name in Perth which is Gaelic for son of David i. e. Davidson. My mother's Great Grandfather was le Chev Richard de JOURNET a Basque of Poictu, France. He was in the Revolution with General Count Rochambeau and married Gen. William Lee Davidson's daughter and went home to France leaving her with one child Daniel, de Journet. He was a Vendeean and was guillotined in 1794 in le place du Concorde, Paris. But you are not worried about my trouble. My ancestors are asleep in the arms of history, let them lie.

I know some of this family personally or used to, and they and I worked over the Robert (Irish Bob) we then called him, as long as thirty-five years ago. John Hume of this family removed from London, Ohio, to Tennessee, and he and I lived in McKenzie, Tenn., at the same time and of course were warm friends. We worked over this same ground then and he knew the history quite well.

I note at page 7 in the list of the sons of the Scotch Exile, Wedderburn George, that you have set opposite to his name married Anne—I take it that Mrs. March-Douglass did not do that and I distinctly recall that I corrected that item in the proof you submitted to me for correction. The reference on the same page as the first suggestion to-wit 153, that William Hume married Sarah Baker who is referred to as Miss Baker. Now "Miss Baker" was Mrs. Baker a widow almost past the child bearing period when she married William. Her maiden name was Sarah Benson. She was a daughter of one Prue Benson of Fauquier Co., Va., who wrote her a great number of letters after she went to Kentucky and sent her several negroes as presents and I have in my hands now the deeds to these negroes. She had however in 1791 Joel Benson Hume and perhaps another child which died earlier. I know of these people well. They are among the leading families of Bourbon, Pendleton, and Grant Counties, Kentucky, and are all like myself descended from Geo. Hume, son of William, and the Second Elizabeth Procter, the George Hume mentioned with Francis and William on the certificate at page 154 your book. The other George called Virginia George by his line, was a Tory, being the oldest and very rich, he sided with the crown.

Respectfully,

(Signed) Jno. R. Hume.

My Dear Sir:

I am herewith enclosing to you a brief statement of the family of Robert Hume of Minden, Massachusetts, the first Hume who came to America and the one who furnished the most soldiers for the Revolution. I have the entire genealogy, which was furnished to me by a genealogist in Boston by the name of Anson G. Titus, some thirty years ago or longer. This Robert Hume, the father of Nicholas Hume, was also the father of Mrs. March Douglas' William. Her ancestor was older than our William and removed from New England to Pennsylvania. He came to America at least 18 years before Wedderburn George came and was here when our ancestor was only 4 years old.

If Mrs. (March) Douglas wants to get her line set right, I will be glad to furnish her with a copy of these memoirs which are very complete, however she has the children of that William Hume set out in your book about like I have them from Prof. Titus, but she has the wrong William.

Respectfully,

Jno. R. Hume.

This data was compiled many years ago for me by Anson Titus of Tufts College, in Boston, Mass., he was a professional genealogist and his work was sought for far and near. I got the record before I made my first trip to Europe in the interest of the Hume Genealogy. This family was one among the 39 Scotch-Irish families that Hanna mentions as having come to America before 1714, and left Scotland about 1600 or a little later and settled in Ireland. They belonged to Wedderburn.
